GOLDFIELDS WILL GET THE BATTLE

Tex Richard Announces He Has Shifted Fight to Nevada Mine Camp.

TAKES NO CHANCES WITH CALIFORNIA

No Visible Possibility of Getting Governor to Change Mind.

San Francisco, Cal., June 17.—Goldfield, Nev., will be the battleground for the Jeffries-Johnson heavyweight championship July 4 if the business men of that place are sincere in the offer of $120,000 guarantee telegraphed to Tex Rickard by Morris Sullivan, a merchant of the mining camp.

Rickard arose today fully determined to take the match to Nevada and when in the first telegram he opened he read the Goldfield offer, the promoter immediately announced to the Associated Press that unless some other Nevada town makes a better offer, the battle would take place in the mining camp where he conducted the famous Gans-Nelson championship match.

Sullivan and Rickard are old friends and the latter said he was satisfied that the offer was made in good faith, and that the men backing the project are fully able to raise the required sum.

Getting Ready for Fight in Courts.

The attorney general's office was busy today preparing depositions which will be filed later in the day to support a motion for a temporary restraining order against the Kaufman-Langford fight promoters from proceeding with the twenty-round fight scheduled for tomorrow afternoon in this city.

Governor Gillett left here today to return to Sacramento. He stated before his departure that the matter is now in the hands of the attorney general and that he will take no further action until that official has exhausted all court procedure. That Webb will take no immediate action in relation to the Jeffries-Johnson contest was made certain today. Assistant Attorney General Benjamin announced that nothing would be done in that direction until the Langford-Kaufman injunction motion is disposed of by the superior court.

This statement is believed to have been the final step leading to Rickard's decision to take the fight to Nevada, as he had previously declared that he would not wait longer than Friday for a clear-cut decision of the question. He has already expressed himself as not being satisfied with using the Langford-Kaufman match as a test.

Plan to Use Militia.

Plans were made today at a conference attended by Governor Gillett, Adjutant General Lauck, Colonel Pippy, of the governor's staff and an officer of the regular army, to call out the state militia to stop the Langford-Kaufman fight tomorrow. The conference was held in the office of Attorney General Webb and although they would not talk the conferees would not deny that the designated action had been taken. Promoter Louis Blot, of the Langford-Kaufman fight, after hearing the governor's decision declared that he would hold the contest as he had advertised it and compel the troops to stop the fight.

RENO WILL NOT RAISE BID.

Reno, Nev., June 17.—That Reno will not make any effort to outbid Goldfield in its alleged offer of $120,000 for the big fight was evidenced immediately after the Associated Press bulletins announcing the decision of Rickard were posted. The statement was immediately issued from the business men's committee, which has the local end of the affair in charge, that Reno would not raise its initial offer one cent.

SITUATION IS UNCHANGED.

San Francisco, June 17.—Unless an unforeseen shift occurs in the fight situation a definite announcement that Jeffries and Johnson will come together for their championship battle at Reno, Nev., is expected today from Promoter Rickard, who unofficially late last night made the following statement:

"It is safe to say that the fight will take place at Reno. I am not going to waste any more time or money in California. But Jeffries and Johnson will meet on the Fourth of July even if I have to take them on the desert to hold the fight and even if it breaks me."

Governor Standing Pat.

That there is no intention on the part of the state authorities to recede from their position is clearly indicated in the latest pronouncements of the governor and the attorney general. Governor Gillett says: "I understand that many men have arranged to come to California to see Jeffries and Johnson fight. To them I want to say they need have no doubt about the situation. There will be no fight between Jeffries and Johnson in California."

Attorney General Webb says: "There will be no fight between Jeffries and Johnson, nor between Kaufman and Langford. The latter fight, which is scheduled for Saturday, will be stopped by force if the principals and promoters persist."

It is reported that arrangements are under way for the erection of a mammoth arena at Reno. According to Rickard's statement last night he will leave for Reno Sunday morning if the local situation has not cleared and take personal charge of preparations there.

"As every one knows," he says, "the

CHRIST SPIRIT IN BISHOP'S LETTER

SEES CHRISTIAN CHURCH AS ONE

Remarkable Message Sent by Bishop of Cremona, Mgr. Bonomelli.

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 17.—Today's features at the world missionary conference were the reading of a letter from Monsignor Bonomelli, Roman Catholic bishop of Cremona, Italy, and the presentation of the report of the commission on "Education in relation to the Christianization of National Life."

The communication of the bishop was in response to an invitation for him to contribute a message.

The Invitation.

The invitation explained the purpose of the conference in the following language:

"A world missionary conference is to be held at Edinburgh, Scotland. Christians of all churches in the world are freely invited. It is merely a conference on how all Christians of every name may better understand each other and better combine to make Christ and his church known to all men.

"The conference will only confer, it will not pass resolutions or take any definite action; no convictions are to be compromised; no principles sacrificed. Will you write a letter to be read at the conference advocating better feeling, better knowledge, holier relations amongst all who believe in Christ as God, in order that we may all come together in God's good time into the universal body of Christ—the one, holy, Catholic and apostolic church."

Monsignor Bonomelli's Reply.

Monsignor Bonomelli addressed his reply to Silas McBee, American delegate, who presented it to the conference. It read in part as follows:

"A conference of representatives of all the Christian denominations, held with the noble aim of better making known Christ and the church to consciences which live and exhibit in practice all the profound and fecund beauty of religious aspirations, is a fact of such importance and significance that it cannot escape the attention of any one who may follow the conference, however superficially, in what a degree the most profound problems are agitating and revolutionizing the modern spirit.

"Your conference, which is being held in Scotland, the land of strong and noble ideals, though at one time torn asunder by religious strife, is a triumphant proof of another consoling fact; the most desirable and precious of human liberties, religious liberty, may now be said to be a grand conquest of contemporary humanity, and it enables men of various faiths to meet together, not for the purpose of hating and combatting each other, for the supposed greater glory of God, but in order to concentrate themselves in Christian love to the pursuit of that religious truth which unites all believers in Christ. United in one faith, the various spiritual forces combine in the adoration of the one true God in spirit and in truth.

"For these reasons I applaud your conference.

Not An Idle Dream.

"I know very well that some skeptical spirits, saturated in gross materialism or cold positivism, may smile at your initiative, and tax you with Utopian optimism, or with being well meaning dreamers, shutting your eyes to the realities of life.

"Yours, gentlemen, is not an optimistical ideal, nor an idle dream. The elements of fact, in which you all agree, are numerous, and are common to the various Christian denominations and they can therefore serve as a point of departure for your discussions.

"It is, therefore, legitimate to aspire to unity of faith and of religious practice, and to work for its realization by the consecration of all energies of mind and heart. This is a work in which we in our day may well co-operate.

Man Must Have Religion.

"Now, on what matters and what principles are you agreed, gentlemen? To my thinking they are as follows: Like myself, all of you are persuaded that the physical, ethical and social developments of life do not satisfy man, because man, whether he wills it or not, is oppressed by the infinite; and this consciousness, from which he cannot deliver himself, urges him to harmonize his physical and social conditions with the supreme reality, which is God, the source of all these conditions and to which they are subordinate. Without such harmony, the ethical and social life loses its significance, and impresses us with its insufficiency. Faith, therefore, in God, the creator, which bestows on human life an eternal and absolute value, is for you, the primary point of agreement. You all share faith in Christ, the Redeemer.

"Thus, we are united in the profound conviction that a universal religion is necessary, and that this must be the Christian religion; not a cold and formal religion, a thing apart from human life, but a living force, pervading the human soul in its essence, and its various manifestations, a religion, in short, which completes and crowns our life, and which bears fruition on worlds of love and holiness.

Feel Need of a Church.

"Again all of you feel the need of a church, which may be the outward manifestation of your faith and religious feeling, the vigilant custodian now and here of Christian doctrine and tradition. It sustains and keeps

GOVERNOR OF CALIFORNIA AND TWO CONGRESSMEN WHO MOVED HIM.

Congressman Bennett, of New York, and Congressman Foster, of Vermont, are popularly supposed to have put the spurs to Governor Gillett, of California, which made the executive declare the Jeffries-Johnson fight could not take place in his state. California's chance to secure the Panama Canal world's fair was involved.

TAFT IS WORKING FOR STATEHOOD

President Doing All He is Able to Get House to Take Senate Bill.

PRESIDENT IS THE CENTER OF THINGS

Postal Savings Bank Bill is in Danger of a Conference.

Washington, June 17.—President Taft today took up the task of securing statehood for New Mexico and Arizona. He sent for several of the house leaders, including Representative Hamilton, chairman of the committee on territories. When Mr. Hamilton left the white house it was with the promise that he would do all he could to have the house accept the statehood bill without a conference.

Mr. Taft was well pleased with the progress made today and strong pressure will be brought to bear to have the house accept the senate bill as a whole. In return for this, the president is said to be in a position to promise that the senate will accept the house postal savings bank bill.

Taft the Center of Things.

President Taft is unquestionably the center of the legislative situation. He is being consulted by all sides on every measure of importance pending. The suggestion has been heard that the president is holding up the river and harbor bill, as a sort of "club" to secure his legislative program from congress. When asked about this some of the president's friends, among them white house callers today said they hoped it was true for it would indicate that the president was learning something of the political game.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor saw the president today and discussed pending labor legislation with him, particularly the employers' liability bill and the bill for the creating of a separate department of labor.

POSTAL BANK BILL IN PERIL.

Washington, June 17.—It was developed on the floor of the senate today that opposition to the program for concurrence by the senate in the house bill to create postal savings banks would not be confined to the democrats.

"Insurgent" republicans are opposed to the house bill, and quite a formidable opposition is preparing to insist that the bill be sent to conference. "But it might be impossible for the conferees to reach an agreement this session," said Senator Smoot to Senator Cummins, who had suggested that there should be changes in the house measure.

"Even that would be preferable to taking the bill as it is," said the Iowa senator. "The conferees could make their report to the next session and no great loss would result to the country by reason of the delay."

All of this discussion was informal and it spread to all parts of the chamber.

WILL AMEND HOUSE RULES.

Washington, June 17.—The decision of the house rules committee today to report a "reform" rule designed to prevent legislation being "smothered" in committee, makes another fight on the rules in the house at this session improbable. The rule is practically that prepared by the democratic conference, known as the Clark-Sherley resolution. It is expected to be reported to the house later in today's session.

OPPOSES RAILROAD BILL.

Washington, June 17.—Asserting that the democratic members of the committee of conference on the railroad bill had not been permitted to participate in the proceedings of the committee, Senator Newlands, who had been selected to represent the minority senators in the conference, took the floor when the railroad bill was taken up in the senate today to express his disapproval of the report.

Mr. Newlands criticised the commerce court provision, saying that it was sure to supplant the interstate commerce commission in many of its important functions. Explaining that the conferees had accepted the house long and short haul provision, the Nevada senator expressed apprehension that the proposed law would be found to be unconstitutional because of its delegation of power without laying down a rule of action. He predicted also that the intermediate points would fail to obtain from the provision the rates they were counting upon.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

Washington, June 17.—The house committee on labor today decided to report favorable a bill creating a department of labor with a seat in the president's cabinet.

PICK SPEAKERS FOR THE MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

Four Prominent Visiting Workers to Launch Laymen's Campaign Here.

Arrangements are about complete for the conduct of the Laymen's Missionary conference to be held in Fort Wayne Sunday and Monday, June 19-20. A quartet of prominent laymen, widely known in the missionary field, have been secured to launch the movement's campaign in this city, while local pastors and people will co-operate, endeavoring to make it a success. F. J. Michel, of Chicago, who played a leading role in the meetings of the Men's National Missionary congress, held May 3-6 in Chicago, will arrive in Fort Wayne at 8:35 o'clock Saturday evening. He will be met by a delegation and shortly after the combined committees will hold an important meeting and make final preparations for Sunday's program. The assignment of speakers will be one of the important features.

Another prominent layman who will visit Fort Wayne for the conference is H. B. Dickson, of Indianapolis. He was for some time engaged in work among the head-hunters in Assam, British India. Messrs. Lloyd Harter, F. B. Price and E. C. Field, all of Chicago, will also participate in the meetings in the several churches Sunday morning, the mass meeting at the Majestic Sunday afternoon, the union sectional meetings Sunday evening, the business sessions at the First Baptist church on Monday and the mammoth banquet at the Princess rink in the evening.

Program Scheduled.

The Laymen's Missionary conference opens Sunday with the regular services in the churches. A number of local pulpits will at that time be occupied by prominent laymen. In the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock a mass meeting for men only will be held at the Majestic theater. Laymen prominently identified in missionary activities and extension will address the assembly. Sunday evening sectional union meetings will be held at the First Presbyterian church of which Rev. Henry B. Master is pastor; at Wayne street Methodist Episcopal church, of which Rev. C. C. Travis is pastor, and at Bethel Evangelical church, of which Rev. Clifford D. Rarey is pastor. Beginning at 9 a. m. Monday morning, business sessions occupying the day will be held at the First Baptist church. Missionary topics will be discussed and a large gathering of laymen is desired.

The mammoth banquet at Princess rink Monday evening will be the closing feature of the campaign. If the sale of tickets serves as a criterion fully one thousand will assemble at the festive board.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

France.—Funeral services for Philip L. France will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence of J. E. K. France, 2424 South Harrison street.

BLOT WILL DEFY STATE SOLDIERS

TROOPS ORDERED TO SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, June 17.—State troops will be used to prevent the Langford-Kaufman fight tomorrow. This was the order of Governor Gillett today.

Promoter Louis Blot will not yield. He declares that he will hold the "contest if an army is turned out."

"I will make the soldiers stop the fight," he said.

Following is the governor's order to Adjutant General Lauck:

"Make necessary arrangements at once to have two companies of militia at San Francisco at 2 p. m. Saturday, June 18, to prevent the fight between Kaufman and Langford, if the police of the city do not interfere.

"J. N. GILLETT, Governor."

Governor Gillett also sent a letter today to District Attorney Fickert, of San Francisco, explaining his action in ordering out the state troops. He said Fickert's failure to "perform his sworn duty of his office" compelled him to act. The action of the governor followed a conference with Adjutant General Webb and major of the regular army.

Will Defy Troops.

Blot declared he had no intention of stopping the bout because of the troops. He added that his plans for holding the contest were not mapped out fully, but that a definite line of action would be decided at another conference with his attorneys.

"We are distributing our tickets and will continue to sell them despite all efforts of the governor and his assistants to prevent it. The fight will come off as advertised—of that you may assure yourselves.

"The Kaufman-Langford contest is absolutely within the law and we propose to go ahead knowing that we are strictly within the law regarding the glove contests."

"Do you mean by that, Mr. Blot," was suggested, "that the local authorities will assist you in pulling off the match."

"When the time comes you will know further about that. At present I do not deem it expedient to give out any further information."

WAS NOT BRIBED; JUST GOT $1,000

Illinois Democratic Solon Explains His Vote for Billy Lorimer.

PROMISED LORIMER TO VOTE FOR HIM

Chicago, June 17.—The direct evidence of the state against Lee O'Neil Browne, charged with buying legislative votes for Senator Lorimer, may be completed tonight. Representative Beckemeyer, who admitted receiving $1,000 after voting for Lorimer, finished his testimony shortly after court opened today, and Representative Michael S. Link, whose story was expected to be closely analogous to Beckemeyer was called to the stand over the objections of the defense. Beckemeyer was cross examined by Attorney P. H. O'Donnell. He said that a day or two before the election of Lorimer the general talk about the legislature was that "there was something in it" for those who voted for Lorimer. "What did Browne say to you the day before Lorimer was elected?" asked State's Attorney Wayman. "Browne said: 'You cannot afford to quit the bunch now. Stay with us.'"

Was Against Hopkins.

Attorney Forrest, of the defense, brought out that Beckemeyer had told G. N. Welch, a friend, that he would vote for anyone to defeat the re-election of Senator Hopkins. At one stage of the balloting he had promised to vote for Speaker Shurtleff.

"When Browne asked you and Representative White to return to your rooms at the St. Nicholas hotel at Springfield were you not trying to make a speech in your underwear?" inquired Forrest.

"I do not so recall the incident," replied Beckemeyer.

Late today it is expected that Representative Robert E. Wilson will appear before Judge Kersten to plead to the indictment charging him with perjury in denying that he distributed the legislative "jackpot" at St. Louis. It is believed that he will request that the indictment be quashed on the grounds that Judge McSurely has ruled that the "jackpot" testimony is not relevant to the trial of Browne and that therefore he could not have perjured himself no matter what story he told the jury with reference to the "jackpot."

Wasn't Bribed; Just Paid.

Link is a farmer, 52 years old. He said he voted for Lorimer because he liked Lorimer's position on the deep waterways project, and because Lorimer personally asked for his vote. He was promised no reward, but later was given $1,000, he said, by Browne in the Southern hotel at St. Louis. The witness said that he lived in Madison county, bordering on the Mississippi river. Lorimer, he said, in a speech to the legislature urged it to vote no money for deep waterway purposes until assured of federal aid.

"I liked that argument," said Link. "If Illinois went ahead on its own responsibility to dig the canal it would cost my district alone $250,000."

When Browne asked him to vote for Lorimer, Link said, he laughed and said, "Lee, I've beaten you to it. Lorimer asked me himself for my vote and I promised it to him."

Link's meeting Lorimer took place in the Southern hotel at St. Louis. Lorimer, he said, asked him if he had any influence with the minority leader, Browne. Link replied he had not.

CATCHER CRIGER VER ILL.

Former Fort Wayne Player is Suffering From Appendicitis.

New York, June 17.—Lou Criger, catcher for the New York Americans, is suffering from appendicitis in Cleveland, Ohio, and an operation may be necessary, according to a dispatch from Cleveland today. Criger was taken ill Thursday night and his physicians say that if the catcher undergoes an operation it will end his career on the base ball field.

Catcher Criger's home is at Elkhart, this state, and he began his professional base ball career in Fort Wayne in 1896 as a member of the old Interstate league team which represented this city. Criger is recognized as one of the star backstops of the game and has played in Cleveland, New York and Boston, with both the American and the National league teams.

STREET CAR HITS AUTO.

An East Creighton street car and an automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. James Wells, 1806 Oliver street, were riding, collided at John and Buchanan streets at 10 o'clock today, and Mrs. Wells sustained painful bruises about the head and neck. Dr. McHugh, the attending physician, said this afternoon that the full extent of the injuries could not yet be determined.

The auto was turned completely about in its impact with the street car, and Mrs. Wells was thrown against the top of the car. She was suffering intensely when removed to her home.

ALL IS ALL RIGHT BUT THE WEATHER

J. Pluvius Threatens to Mar the Roosevelt Reception.

PRESIDENT DUE IN NEW YORK SATURDAY

On Board Ship is Keeping as Much as Possible in Retirement.

New York, June 17.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt today is fast nearing New York, where a welcoming demonstration awaits him tomorrow on his return from foreign lands. A wireless dispatch from the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria with Col. Roosevelt and his family abcard, says the liner was 433 miles east of Ambrose channel lightship at 6 o'clock this morning, which under ordinary conditions would bring the steamship off the Sandy Hook reaches tomorrow morning.

Weather Dubious Prospect.

Weather conditions for the welcoming seemed dubious, indeed this morning. A fog fairly screened the bay and a drizzle made New ork a sodden spot today but the weather man held out a little prospect of clearing. Fog at sea might delay the steamship, but as the program does not call for the steamship to be in quarantine until 9 o'clock, Captain Ruser has some leeway in time.

"There will be no postponement of any of tomorrow's program on account of fog, rain or anything else in the weather line if the steamship gets in on time," was the statement made by the reception committee today.

All Preparations Completed.

All preparations for the former president's welcome have been completed. When the vessel drops anchor off quarantine Col. Roosevelt and his family will go aboard the revenue cutter Manhattan for breakfast, after which they will be transferred to the larger cutter Androscoggin, which will lead the water parade up the Hudson and back to the Battery, where Mayor Gaynor will welcome the returning hunter.

The exercises at the Battery will be followed by a parade up Broadway and Fifth avenue, visiting organizations having positions assigned them along the line of march. Col. Roosevelt goes to his home in Oyster Bay late in the afternoon.

All in-coming trains brought large numbers of visitors to the city today.

Rounding Up Crooks.

In the general roundup of crooks, detectives corralled sixty-seven in the borough of Manhattan. They were all taken to the police headquarters during the night and morning.

The battleship South Carolina, which will lead the line of warships in tomorrow's naval parade arrived off the Highlands from Newport News this morning. The torpedo boat destroyers Smith, Flusser, Lawson, Reid and Preston, which will follow the South Carolina in the marine procession, also came in from Newport News and anchored in Sandy Hook bay.

The weather bureau today makes the following local weather forecast:

"Showers this afternoon. Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; warmer Saturday; light to moderate variable winds becoming westerly."

Family Will See.

The ex-president's wife and children will occupy a private box at the battery while the speeches are being made there. The reception committee has solved the problem of finding a way for the Roosevelts through the crowds to and from the box by constructing a private entrance under the grand stand leading directly to the box.

For this purpose the revenue cutter Manhattan, with Mrs. Roosevelt and her party aboard will dock at the fire department's wharf, directly opposite the entrance. The box will be in front of the grand stand, which will be directly opposite a small platform which will be occupied only by Col. Roosevelt and Mayor Gaynor.

A committee from the chamber of commerce of Columbus, Ohio, has arrived here to present to Col. Roosevelt a golden arch as a gift from the people of Columbus, and invite him to visit the Columbus, Ohio, industrial exposition on July 4.

IN RETIREMENT ON SHIP.

Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, June 17.—(Via Marconi Wireless, Siaconaset, Mass.)—As the steamer Kaiserin Auguste Victoria approaches New York the former president continues to receive invitations to deliver speeches. All of these invitations will be declined by Colonel Roosevelt after his arrival. With the exception of three occasions, Colonel Roosevelt has not met many of the passengers on the steamer. These occasions were at the services last Sunday, on last Tuesday, when he held a reception on deck and shook hands with some three hundred of his fellow voyagers. Yesterday he attended a lecture by Homer Davenport, the cartoonist, and at its conclusion he spoke briefly.

Mr. Roosevelt spends most of his time dictating to his stenographer or walking the lower deck alone wearing a gray suit and a slouch hat. The other passengers on the Kaiserin respect his desire for privacy. Mr Roosevelt takes his breakfast in the dining saloon, but lunches and dines with his family in their private apartments. Mrs. Roosevelt and the former president's daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, keep to their own cabins most of the time.

The city school board will receive bids for coal at a meeting to be held this evening. The figures will probably be taken under advisement.

JURORS GIVE CRATE DAMAGES AFTER A FIGHT

Important Decision Goes Against Wabash—The Court News.

A jury in the superior court returned a verdict this morning giving George Crates $448 damages against the Wabash railroad company and the Indiana Improvement company for depreciation on his property due to the fact that the railroad shops were moved from Ashley.

The finding is an important one on account of its bearing on a number of other suits of the same kind that have been entered. This action was brought here from Auburn on a change of venue and a bitter fight made for the reason that much hangs on the final outcome of the suit. Following the return attorneys for the companies asked for a judgment on the answers to a number of interrogatories answered by the jury and this motion will be heard on July 7.

Some years ago the Wabash company established shops at Ashley and the Improvement company sold property on the representation that they were to be permanent. The railroad company endorsed this and after a time removed the shops. Property depreciated rapidly and suits were filed to recover this depreciation. Thomas Wickwire, of Angola, and Colerick and Hogan, of this city, represented Crates. Judge Hammond and Leonard, Rose and Zollars appeared for the companies.

Court Notes.

Louise Wesemen's will was filed in the circuit court today and her property is to be divided between Henry William Weseman, Emma Gaskins, Clara Motz and Olga Weseman, her children. The son is appointed executor.

Talbott Wilson was fined $10 and costs for assaulting his wife and relieved of a ten-day jail sentence given him in the city court. An assault and battery case against John Smetzer was dismissed.

Judge ORourke declined to give Edith S. Eckles a divorce from Homer W. Eckles after a hearing that lasted an entire day.

On the application of John M. Kuhns, administrator of the estate of John Moritz, Judge O'Rourke found in interpreting the will that Mrs. Cora A. Hayden is entitled to the bequest of $1,000 and an allowance of $1,000 annually for the care of her two children until the son arrives at the age of twenty-five years. There was some question about the wording of the will although the amounts named were specifically provided for.

In the semi-annual settlement the forces in the office of County Auditor Lindemuth find that there is due the county from all sources on the 1909 tax duplicate the sum of $452,727.63 and County Treasurer Echleman placed the amount to the credit of the county.

The will of the late Dr. Carl Schilling was filed in the circuit court today. The document was drawn in 1899 and under its provisions all his property is left to his widow.

The suit for damages instituted by Chalmers Drake against Ernest Paul, city patrolman, who arrested him several years ago while he was distributing socialist literature on the street during a parade, was set down for hearing in the superior court for this afternoon. There were a couple of cases ahead of it with little probability that it would be reached.

HARD TO FIND MEN UP TO POLICE STANDARD

No Appointment to Fill the Vacancy on Force —City Hall.

Members of the board of public safety say it is a difficult matter to get good men for the police force and for that reason no appointment has been made and nobody picked for the vacancy caused by the resignation of Calvin Beam.

There are stacks of applicants but not many of them measure up to the physical or mental standard the board is trying to maintain and therein lies the great trouble. Detective Sergeant Martin Rundell will go back to the patrol force at his own request and while no selection has been made for his place it is likely that Court Bailiff Ward Hall will serve temporarily.

An Every Day Market.

Under the ordinance passed by the city council Tuesday night the clause providing for a market every day in the week was not stricken out and only the scale of prices to be charged was eliminated. The board of public safety holds that in its present form market can be held on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at a stall rental of 25 cents a day. The ordinance in this form will be signed by the mayor.

Must Cut Weeds.

The health department is after the lot owners who neglect to cut weeds and notices are being sent out. If they are not complied with affidavits will be filed, as Dr. Crull says he is determined that the law shall be complied with in this respect. Complaints have been coming in rapidly and some action is demanded.

Board of Works Routine.

At the meeting of the board of public works last night plans for a sewer in South Wayne in the territory between Calhoun and Hanna streets, south of Wildwood avenue, were adopted.

Plans were approved and resolutions adopted to condemn a right-of-way for the above main sewer and for paving Calhoun street from Superior to Eureka.

A contract was signed granting the Fort Wayne Electric works a franchise to cross Broadway with a factory tunnel now under course of construction.

Plans were ordered for cement sidewalks on the north side of Pioneer avenue from Walton to New Haven avenues and on the north side of New Haven avenue to Edsall avenue; on the east side of Fairfield avenue from Jefferson street to Washington boulevard, and for grading Webster street from Kilyea to Wildwood avenues.

Assessment roles were confirmed for paving alleys between Wayne and Washington and Jefferson streets. Resolutions were confirmed for a sewer between Stophlet street and Swinney avenue, for walks on South Wayne and Kinniard avenues and for walks on Harrison street.

NO REASON FOR PIMPLES

New Healing Agent Causes Them to Disappear.

The dispensers of poslam, the new skin discovery, ask that notice be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining the sample package, which will be sent free to any one who writes to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York. This is usually enough to clear the complexion and to rid the face of pimples. Every one who has tried poslam knows that the 50-cent box, on sale at Meyer Bros. Co., as well as all other drug stores, contain sufficient for the worst cases of eczema, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, tetter, blotches, scaly scalp, hives, barber's and every other form of itch, including itching feet. Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of poslam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them.

Tuberculosis of the Throat

Similar Experience of Two Fort Wayne Ladies—Cured Without Medicines After Being Treated by Many Physicians.

The experience of these two Fort Wayne ladies may be of great value to others afflicted with throat or bronchial affection. They are both anxious that others who have similar afflictions may know how they were cured.

Mrs. Louis Ormiston, living at 2803 South Calhoun street, relates this experience: "I had a severe case of throat trouble for over three years. My condition was very distressing and I went to one doctor after another until I had been treated by nearly a dozen different physicians, but none of them were able to give me any relief. I was told that I had tuberculosis of the throat and that I could not be cured. I finally consulted Dr. Wells, who cured me. I could see that I was benefited by the first treatment and steadily improved till I was well. It has been two years and there has been no return of the disease."

Mrs. Mary Stewart, of No. 2117 Maumee avenue, had a very similar experience. She said: "I had a serious affliction of the throat for a long time. My symptoms were alarming and I suffered intensely at times. I made every effort to get cured and was treated by thirteen different physicians in my effort to find some one who could help me. I finally went to see Dr. Wells, who said he could cure me. His treatment was so different from any other that I had been given, that I took renewed hope. I was markedly benefited by the first treatment and in a few weeks was completely cured. There has been no return of the disease in more than a year."

These are fair samples of many cases that have been cured by Oxyoline and electrical treatments by Dr. Wells. He invites those with obstinate cases of throat, bronchial or lung disease to try his treatment. He is curing many cases that resist other methods of treatment. His office is located at 229 E. Berry street, opposite the Airdome theater.

June Section—Preston Everit Ake, Corinne Louise Baade, Esther Luella Baldwin, Royall Henry Bandalier, Nora Ethel Barbour, Carrie Justine Behrman, Nell Grace Bleekman, Gertrude Louise Bohne, Jay Murray Brown, Harry Baldwin Calpha, Elva Iona Connett, Agnes Cecelia Beatrice Diebold, Helen Doswell, John Hyndman Craig, Louis Heber Dunten, Albert Christian Jacob Elett, Walter Jenkinson Fishering, Solly Katzenberg Frankenstein, Olive Gauntt, Cecelia Goldberger, Alfred Waldemar Gross, Amelia Metha Hofer, Elsie Hyacinth Hoopingarner, Gladys Hughes, George Joseph Jordan, Alma Irene Kariger, Helen Anna Lane, Clarence Francis Lomont, Leah Helen Marth, Nellie Gertrude Maxwell, Dudley Stockton McClure, James Marshall McKay, Jane Ellenor McKay, Evelyn Louise Meyer, Lola Curtis Miller, William McKee Moffat, Albert Byron Muller, Edward George Nagel, Cecelia Grace Parker, Irma Lucille Poole, Elizabeth Lane Porter, Charles Edgar Pratt, Mary Aylene Randall, Georgia Irene Saylor, Alma Belle Sharp, Margaret Miller Shulze, Desdelora Stevens, Margery Study, Ethel Mary Tompkins, Larene Isabel Travers, Byron Burns Turflinger, Margaret Turner Underhill, Annette Elizabeth Vonderau, Trafford MacCrea Wilson, Georgia Mildred Wirth, Roscoe Herald Zook.

Sixty-one young ladies and young gentlemen, comprising the Fort Wayne High school's class of 1910, received diplomas and shared in the triumphs of the forty-sixth annual commencement held Thursday evening at the high school auditorium, where an immense audience attested its kindly interest in the new class of graduates and the magnificent school system of the city.

Superintendent Justin N. Study presided. Georgia Mildred Wirth was the salutatorian and Elizabeth Lane Porter delivered the valedictory. These two young ladies, with Margaret Miller Shulze and Harry Baldwin Calpha, constitute the honor scholars of the class. Rev. Dr. Francis J. McConnell, successor of Bishop H. Hughes as president of DePauw university, delivered the class address, and the diplomas were presented by Ernest W. Cook, treasurer of the school board. The annual commencement reception followed at the Minuet hall.

Picture a Pretty One.

The audience burst into applause when at the opening of the exercises the stage curtain was drawn back, for the picture disclosed was a pretty one. Massed upon the stage in front of their instructors were the members of the large class, the young ladies in bewitching gowns of white, each carrying clusters of flowers, and the seating arrangements provided for the alternating of the young ladies and the young gentlemen of the class.

At the right side of the stage sat Messrs. E. W. Cook, Anselm Fuelber and J. McBeth Smith, the members of the board of school trustees, while opposite them were Superintendent Study, Rev. Dr. McConnell and Rev. Dr. Moffat. There had been no attempt at stage decoration beyond the hanging of a large American flag as a background for the handsome picture, and immediately in front of the stage was Reineke's orchestra, which played the musical numbers of the evening. Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat delivered the invocation.

Theme Was "Our Heritage."

From a graceful welcome address to the audience on behalf of her class, Georgia Mildred Wirth, the salutatorian, passed to the discussion of "Our Heritage." She considered each individual life as in a sense the composite of many ancestral influences, and declared that the racial legacy was in large measure the basis for civilization. The strong lines of the men who built it are woven into the web of national character, and the individual life is a climax of other lives. But our own achievements are not the result of destiny so much as of intelligent grasp of opportunity and persevering effort. Destiny is after all a combination of opportunity where every day is a door, and the true measure of success is our ability to use opportunity. The high school course, which we have just completed, ought to serve two important purposes. It ought to both point out opportunity and develop ability to grasp and to make the most of that opportunity, and the largest measure of success will be found in applying the forces here developed to the zealous use of our heritage in the uplifting and broadening and elevating of humanity.

"Your World and Mine."

"Your World and Mine" was the theme of the valedictory by Elizabeth Lane Porter, and it was treated along lines of delightful optimism. As the basis for her argument, Miss Porter declared that "your world and mine will be very largely the kind of world that is the result of our own view and our own efforts." It is likely to be broad or narrow, precisely as we are broad or narrow in our grasp of life. Mind, character, ambition and other elements of personality enter so largely into the making of the world as we are to see it and to know it that it is perhaps more largely the product of our own personality than of those about us. More important than reaching a fixed personal ideal is that purpose which helps to make a great, broad, kindly, helpful, wholesome world, and it will be found that pleasantness or unpleasantness is coming in an increasing measure to depend upon our own view and our own determination—whether we shall be selfish or unselfish, optimistic or pessimistic. The speaker's reference to the parting of the ways which comes with commencement was feelingly given, and through the entire oration rang a note of hopeful enthusiasm that, while not underestimating the seriousness of life, urged a healthy, wholesome, helpful grasp of its real purposes and possibilities.

Education's True Purpose.

Dr. Francis J. McConnell, of DePauw university, who delivered the class address, sought chiefly to impress the fact that the purpose of education is not to place power where it does not exist, not to cram the mind full of bare facts, but to develop and give form to power already possessed, to direct it intelligently, to invest it with poise and balance and to enable it to go with directness to the point.

"These young people who have spent twelve years of their lives in the school rooms," said Dr. McConnell in opening, "have not received any substantial addition to the intellectual forces which have been theirs from birth. Schools do not exist for the purpose of giving power where it is not present, but to give form to power already existent. It is giving form to the bit of wood that makes it an arrow; it is giving form to the lead that makes it a bullet, and it is giving form to an inconsequential bit of glass that transforms it into the valuable lens of the telescope. The miracle has been wrought merely by changing the form, and education seeks to shape thoughts, to give intellectual material form.

"To be an effective speaker, one must learn to arrange his ideas effectively. The thoughts themselves may be commonplace, but by orderly and effective arrangements they may be made forceful. As this is true in speaking, so is it true in thinking.

Mental Poise Imperative.

"You young people," continued Dr. McConnell, turning to the class, "have not been sent to school to have your minds packed with mere facts. In fifteen years from tonight you will not be able to remember half of the things you can now vouch for, and half of what you do remember at that time will not be worth remembering. The chief essential is symmetry, poise and power of thinking—the power that enables the inventor to see the completed machine before it is created; the power that doesn't lose its balance.

"A great deal of present-day thinking is not balanced. I saw at Indianapolis a few days ago the flying machines in operation—wonderful in poise and in balance. Just in the same manner, if you are going to have a flying mind, it must be balanced. These Fort Wayne schools have done harm if they have merely taught your minds to fly, but infinite good if they have brought balance and poise to your mentality as you go out into the world.

"If I am ever asked to make a trip in a flying machine, there are two things I want to know first—will it go up? and, will it come down without too much haste? A good deal of the political oratory of today consists merely in getting the American eagle so high that we can't get him down again.

"We need, also, the power of intellectual directness. The educated mind shows itself in the power to go straight to the point by the shortest and quickest route. That is the mark of the educated mind. We need the type of mind that is not disturbed by thrills or emotions, but keeps steadily on its course to the point. Lincoln had this power of intellectual directness to an admirable degree.

Manners; Not Etiquette.

"One other essential I want to emphasize; that is, manners—good form—fair play—kindly consideration—respect for law. Now I'm speaking of morals; not etiquette. At this moment it doesn't matter to me whether you eat your ice cream with a spoon or a fork. I am talking about the manners that appreciates and recognizes the inherent rights of others—the democracy of the people. The public playground that brings the son of the rich man and the son of the poor man on a common level is a wonderful educator. Wealth isn't given us for display, and we're getting away from some old ideas in these days. The mark of good style in the matter of dress is the man who is attired neither poorly nor gaudily, but so tastefully that he does not attract attention by either extreme. In short, the good manners I am urging puts the man ahead of his clothing and ahead of his wealth.

Assails an Old Saying.

"There is a right and a wrong way of doing things morally," continued Dr. McConnell. "That old saying, 'nothing succeeds like success' is rank heresy. You and I know that what is called success sometimes bring nothing but wreckage. Times are changing, and the world is coming to put the emphasis upon how a man gets his wealth. It is not so much getting the result as getting it rightly. The world is not going to forget again how a man got his money. Beyond simply 'getting there' is "how" he has gotten there.

"The Fort Wayne public schools are standing out against this old success heresy when they are insisting upon the doctrine of fairness and honesty and cleanly decency. For twelve years teachers have been shaping the power within these young minds. They have been transforming the wood into the arrow, the crude iron into the finest steel. The school justifies its existence when it transforms the plain undeveloped glass into the magnificent telescopic lens that reveals to man the glory of the upper sky."

Mr. Cook Awards Diplomas.

Treasurer E. W. Cook, of the city school board, presented the diplomas to the sixty-one graduates, and in his introductory remarks Mr. Cook took occasion to pay a very high compliment to the work of Superintendent Study and Prof. C. T. Lane, principal of the high school, the latter of whom will leave in a few days for Europe in the hope of recuperating his health. There was unstinted applause when Mr. Cook said: "I hope he may return with health completely regained, and that he may continue as principal of the Fort Wayne high school so long as I shall live."

Mr. Cook also referred to some of the progress made by the public schools during the past few years, citing the construction of the new Washington, Jefferson, Bloomingdale, Tenth ward and Hanna schools.

Patterson-Fletcher Co. can show the young men more suits than all other stores in the city. They have all the best things from the "L System," "Kuppenheimer" and "Hart, Schaffner & Marx" and have marked them this week $7 to $10 less than regular price.

Constipation Cure Free

With the first signs of constipation you resort to the home methods of relief, such as hot or cold water on arising, lots of stewed fruit with your breakfast, etc., but what do you do when these fail?

The majority then start on salts and purgative waters, then change to cathartic pills, etc. If you have gone through these various stages you know they were all useless, so far as permanent results go. Now you should try just once again, but try something practical and sensible, a remedy made and intended for the purpose you are trying to accomplish. Such a remedy, as thousands can testify, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is guaranteed to be permanent in its results. Its ingredients are such that by a brief use of it the stomach and bowel muscles are trained to again do their work normally, so that in the end you can do away with medicines of all kinds. That it will do this Mr. G. Y. Dodson of Sanville, Va., will gladly attest, and so will Mrs. S. A. Hampton of Portage, O.

To those who are still skeptical there is a way to prove these assertions without a penny of expense: Simply send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell and obtain a free sample bottle. After using it, if you are then convinced it is the remedy you need, buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of your druggist and continue to use it for a brief time until cured. The directions are simple and the dose is small. It is pleasant to the taste, does not gripe and is promptly effective, and these statements are guaranteed or money will be refunded.

This remedy is over a quarter of a century old and is personally taken by more druggists than any other similar remedy on the American market. Because of its effectiveness, purity and pleasant taste it is the ideal laxative remedy for children, women and old folks generally.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.504 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

In The First Place

Remember that backache, either acute, or of the dull aching kind, rheumatism, urinary irregularities, lassitude, headache with "specks before the eyes," are all indications of kidney and bladder disorders. Or you may have a run-down feeling generally, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and a lack of interest in your work and inability to perform it readily and satisfactorily. Then remember that Foley Kidney Pills are especially and carefully compounded of ingredients noted for the relief and cure of these conditions. Remember too that your kidneys can not be replaced and that you can not live without them. Foley & Company stand back of these Pills as they do the other of their well known list of standard preparations, and urge you to try Foley Kidney Pills at once if you have any indication of kidney or bladder disorder. The genuine is in a yellow package. Do not accept a substitute.

Read how H. C. Hicks of Canton, Ill., derived great benefit from Foley Kidney Pills: "In the past year I had trouble with my kidneys and bladder. First a dull constant pain in the small of my back, then sleeplessness from the necessity of getting up many times a night. I became very nervous, headache and dizziness on rising and specks always before my eyes. At this time I began taking Foley Kidney Pills and I soon saw an improvement, so I kept right on. The pain in my back left me, the action of my kidneys and bladder became regular and natural and I again slept soundly. My ntaural strength and vitality came back and I could again do a good day's work. I gladly recommend Foley Kidney Pills."

There is but one Theodore and he is coming back.

He's coming, he's almost here, and it is a quiet enough approach to suit anybody.

What are the wild waves saying? He's coming back—he's coming back—, he's coming back.

Vice-President Sherman has about completed his census of the insurgents. He will put them in his report as scattering if not scattered. Such are the delusions of hope.

And, anyhow, has there ever been so much fus sand feathers about anyone coming back. Pity a man can't come home without assistance of all the neighbors.

It is only reasonable that that great promoter of moral exhibitions, Professor Tex Rickard, should desire to be told why the governor of California waited until matters had come to a frame-up for a heavy dead loss before finding out the law and the executive devotion to it.

Statesman Jim Stutesman, of Peru or Indianapolis, is resigning his post as envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Bolivia. It is not that his resignation has exactly been asked for, but it is made known to him that it is desirable. And so forth. Minister Stutesman was placed during the Roosevelt administration by Senator Beveridge. That seems to cover the ground.

Senator Beveridge ought to be almost as happy over the passage of his statehood bill by the senate as he would if it were his own re-election that had taken place. He has fought a good fight for New Mexico and Arizona and separate statehood for these two remaining territories of the Union is practically assured. The struggle has been long, bitter and a good deal of the time unpromising. Had the people of the territories consented to be united and admitted as one state the enabling act could have been passed long ago. They wanted separate statehood and stood out for it. Beveridge has kept up the fight with great persistence and ability.

There is such a rapid development of the science of aviation as seems to give promise of really practical uses before a great while. Long overland flights by Paulhan, Curtiss, Hamilton and others, together with the round trip passage of the English channel, indicate that at no very great distance of time aerial voyages by heavier than air machines will be not only very practicable, but of frequent occurrence between such cities as New York and Philadelphia, New York and Washington or Baltimore, New York and Boston or in the west from or to Chicago and numerous cities within tolerably easy distance. Aviators so far agree that the only real practicable use for the aeroplane yet seen is in war, but it is much to be hoped that man's conquest of the air is going to serve him only for the conquest of his fellows.

The Commercial club at its meeting Thursday evening authorized the appointment of a special committee to investigate the matter of organizing a building corporation to supply small houses to rent or sell to workingmen at moderate prices. Action was taken because of the scarcity of houses in the face of the demand of shops and factories for additional workmen.

The proposition to hold a home-coming week during the fall was also referred to a committee with instructions to report at the next meeting.

EAGLES SAY THEIR BROTHER'S DEATH WAS MURDER

Evansville, Ind., June 17.—Sensational evidence to prove a murder in the death of Edward Chamberlain, 30 years old, who died on June 1 without regaining consciousness, after having been hit, it was said, by a bridge timber, while automobile riding, was disclosed to the police last night by officials and members of the Evansville Aerie of Eagles. They will turn over surplus funds of the lodge amounting to $1,000 to run down and prosecute the alleged murderer.

The story they tell, backed by proofs now in the hands of the police for further investigation, is that Chamberlain was struck on the head while in a dice game at the Nine-Mile house, a resort much frequented by automobile parties from this city. The place is in Scott township. It is known also as Gabtown and Earl's Postoffice.

Auto Party Tells Story.

Chamberlain returned to the city on the night of the automobile ride with Gus Zeidler, who owned and drove the car; Jules Joseph, well-known Main street merchant; William Studer, a painter, and Gus Pfitzner, a saloon man. The story told by members of the party was that Chamberlain was leaning too far out of the automobile as it passed through the Fulton avenue bridge across Pigeon Creek, and his head struck one of the projecting timbers as Zeidler swerved the machine to one side to escape a hole in the floor. This story was borne out by the testimony of the members of the party at Coroner Laval's inquest, and the coroner even went so far as to take members of the party out to the scene and receive their statements there. One or two members of the party had an indistinct recollection of the time at which they said Chamberlain was struck by the bridge timber, and all were more or less confused by drink, it is said.

He Got the Job.

"Say, do you need a boy?" queried the little fellow as he stepped inside the door of the ice dealer's office.

"Ever been in the ice business?" queried the dealer.

"No, sir."

"Know anything about arithmetic?"

"Not much."

"What would twenty pounds of ice amount to at 2 cents a pound?"

"Eighty cents."

"Good boy! Come around in the morning and go to work."—Chicago News.

Tenses.

"So you think your new production should appeal to admirers of both the old and the new."

"Yes," replied the theater manager; "the leading actress is a woman with a future, and the heroine of the story is a woman with a past."—Washington Star.

Diagnosed.

"Sure, and you had the doctor to see your husband, did ye?"

"Yes. He gave him a bottle o' bark and pupsin and a canine pill."

"Begorra! It's hydrophobia he has, I guess!"—New York Telegraph.

Defining an Art Patron.

"Is your husband so very fond of art?"

"Art! He doesn't know a Raphael from a hair cut."

"Why, I understood him to say that he was an art patron."

"Patron! That man wouldn't trade a club sandwich for a Bouguereau! What does he mean by calling himself an art patron?"

"Why, he says it costs him ten thousand a year to pay for the bogus masters the smooth dealers coax you to buy, and that makes him an art patron."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Onward and Upward.

"We should keep going onward and upward," said the earnest citizen, "with our minds fixed on higher things."

"That's what I'm doing," replied the busy person. "I have traded my automobile in as part payment on an aeroplane."—Washington Star.

Batting Average.

Miss Mayme Olson, played the wedding music. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white embroidery and lace, made in princess style, a veil of tulle held in place by a cluster of white sweetpeas and held a bouquet of bride roses and sweetpeas held together with ribbons of tulle. The little flower maid was dressed in white with pink sash and pink ribbons on her hair. Miss Alma also had the honor of carrying the wedding ring in her basket of flowers. Miss Pearl Short, who is a cousin of the bride, wore a white embroidery gown with a pink girdle and she carried a bouquet of pink and red peonies, tied with pink ribbons. After the congratulations the wedding party and guests were served a repast by a number of young women dressed in white with Mrs. John Marion as their director. The bride's table was extremely pretty with its carnations and ferns for decoration and an elaborately frosted wedding cake that occupied the center of the table. On the cake was a tiny wedding bell and two toy doves that held sprays of illies of the valley and forget-me-nots in their beaks. On Sunday morning the bride and groom went to Grand Rapids and other northern points. After the first of August Mr. and Mrs. Neff will be at home with the bride's parents. Mr. Neff is a machinist.

The young people of the Arcola M. E. church Sunday school will give an ice cream and strawberry festival in Bellamy's hall, Saturday evening, August 18th.

Etiquette to Be Shown Elderly Women in Calling

Young Women Calling on Their Friends Should Leave Card for Middle Aged Matrons.

Close observance of etiquette will frequently prevent errors or the hurting of elderly women's feelings if persons who are younger ask to see them when calling upon a younger member of the family.

It is not necessary that the older woman shall always be asked for. In the case of a mother and daughter or mother-in-law and daughter-in-law, for instance, younger folk who wish to visit the daughter are not obliged to ask for the mother. But it is considered courteous to do so occasionally, and it is imperative that a visiting card should always be left for the older woman. An omission of this is equivalent to a direct cut.

When presenting cards to the maid who opens the door for the caller two pieces of pasteboard may be given and the younger woman only asked for.

But as a maid is apt to be confused and think that both ladies are wanted when she sees two cards, it is safer to leave the card for the older person on the hall table, or in the drawing room. That is, the caller sends only a card for her young friend, asking for her alone. While the maid is delivering this bit of pasteboard the card for the elder is placed where it will be seen.

It is considered tactful to ask for the older woman on the occasion of the first visit, but even then it is not necessary. But after a wedding, funeral, or other event important to the family, it is polite to make felicitations or condolences in person.

Latitude is given the older woman in that she is not obliged to see the younger one, even when she is asked for. Her refusal is not to be thought, as based upon personal reason, other than that she is fatigued, or not receiving. While a woman the same age may not excuse herself without exciting criticism, an older one may do so easily.

As a card is always to be returned in kind, the older woman's card is either to be taken by her young relative, when the latter goes visiting, or it may be sent direct through the mail. It is not required that the older shall make any calls in person, though there is no doubt that by so doing she keeps more in touch with young folk, and is likely to be of more interest to them. The matter, however, is optional with her.

Perfection Bread Has Its Own High Standard of Purity

The State Board of Health is constantly demanding improvements in the making and marketing of bread throughout the state.

Yet we have never been compelled to change our way of making and marketing Perfection Bread.

Why? Because we have pure food regulations of our own which are even more stringent than those passed by the State Board of Health. We have a HIGHER standard of purity than the law demands. Take the wrapping, for instance.

Perfection Bread is a pioneer in wrapping at the ovens

We inaugurated this feature a year and a half ago because we wished to guarantee that Perfection Bread reached the consumers as clean as when it left the ovens. Without the wrapper this was impossible.

The law follows in our train

The State Board of Health has recently ruled that ALL bread must be wrapped at the ovens after January 1st, 1911. That is two years behind the standard set by Perfection Bread.

Get Bread that has a high standard of purity

Rest assured that Perfection Bread is as pure as anyone can bake. It is 100% pure when baked and the wrapper keeps it 100% clean. When you buy bread, get the kind you can trust. Ten cents a double loaf at all dealers.

BRIDAL COUPLE IN AN AUTO SMASH-UP

Young Physician and His Bride Had Narrow Escape from Death on Their Wedding Night.

Albion, Ind., June 17.—Dr. and Mrs. Walter L. Cowen, who but a few hours before had been married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alice Clapp, in this city, faced death and narrowly escaped it, as they were about to start out on their bridal tour.

They left Albion, after the wedding function, which was a brilliant affair, in an automobile at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, en route to Goshen to take a Lake Shore train for Toledo. In the auto were Dr. Cowen and his bride and C. M. Eagles and Prindall Prickett.

When near to Ligonier their machine struck a sandy road and after skidding up a bank turned turtle and threw them all out, the machine falling on top of Driver Eagle. Before he could be extricated the auto caught fire, but the other members of the party, who were only slightly hurt, went to his assistance and pulled the machine off of him.

They succeeded in extinguishing the fire and after some assistance was procured from Ligonier, they were taken to that city, where the bride and groom remained for the night and then boarded the Toledo train. Mr. Eagles was rendered unconscious in the accident, but today stated that he was all right again and that it was a lucky termination of a serious accident.

Dr. Cowen is a prominent young physician at Lagrange and the newly weds will reside there after their return from a trip of the eastern states.

The prize offered to the longest continued taxpayer of the county, was awarded to Richard L. Newman, of Lagrange. He came here in the spring of 1832 and has been a taxpayer ever since. The prize was a silver souvenir spoon.

A DEATHBED DEED.

Suit in Court to Set Aside Act of Mother.

Hartford City, Ind., June 17.—Suit has been brought in the circuit court here by the heirs of the late Mrs. Charlotte Miller, who died a few days ago at Montpelier, in an effort to have set aside a deed to seventy-five acres of valuable farm land, which was given to Andy Miller, a son of the deceased woman, a day or so before her death and which the other heirs claim was secured at the importunity of the son, who took advantage of his mother's condition to persuade her to deed him the land.

Previous to her last illness, Mrs. Miller is said to have made a will in which she divided her property evenly among all her children.

She was possessed of considerable property and among the real estate owned by her was a seventy-five acre farm northwest of Montpelier situated between the river and the I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Following the death of his mother Andy Miller is said to have displayed a deed to the seventy-five acres to the other heirs with the statement that his mother gave him the land while on her death bed. Miller is said to have brought a notary public to the house and secured the signature of his mother to the instrument.

THE SHOP AND RAIL NEWS

HELP WANTED BY ALL EMPLOYERS

NEIGHBORING CITIES ARE APPEALED TO

Improvement Work Generally Greatly Handicapped by Shortage.

"Were 1,000 good, strong laborers to drop into Fort Wayne in search of employment today," said a shop official, "each would have a job before the close of another day. There isn't a shop nor a contractor in the city that has all of the men needed. Every department of our shop is short and we have the dragnet out in every direction for men," continued the official.

Supt. J. C. Sullivan, of the Wabash, who was in the city this morning, also said the company had difficulty in getting men for track elevation work. There are upwards of fifty men at that work in the yards now, but three times that number is needed and failing to find them here, Supt. Sullivan telegraphed to railway headquarters at St. Louis this morning to see if men could not be gotten in that city or at some other point along the railway who would be willing to come here and work. On account of the scarcity of labor and because of delay in equipping the steam shovel, which was brought here yesterday, it has not been put into service unloading cars in the yards yet. It went to Logansport this morning to unload a few trainloads of dirt and will be back here in time to begin operations Monday morning. From that hour on the work will be pushed with all possible speed.

SIGNED THE NEW SCALE.

General Superintendent Boomer Settles With Engineers.

H. A. Boomer, general superintendent of the Lake Erie and Western road, spent the night in Fort Wayne. He came in over the Lake Shore at 8:40 o'clock last night and left at 6:40 this morning for Indianapolis, riding in his private car. The division officials of the lines accompanied him. While out on his trip Mr. Boomer completed the wage agreement with the engineers by signing it and making it effective from May 16. By the new schedule passenger engineers will receive pay at the rate of $3.75 per hundred miles, instead of $3.60. For through freight service, over 19-inch cylinders, engineers will receive $4.65 per hundred miles, instead of $4.40, and on 19-inch cylinders or less, $4.40 per hundred, instead of $4.20. For all gravel and ballast service engineers will receive $4.50 per hundred. On construction, work trains, wreck, circus and snow service trains all engineers will receive $4.15 per day, 12 hours or less to constitute a day's work.

CARPENTERS HAVE ELECTION.

No. 232, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, held its annual election at Carpenters' hall last night and elected the following officers, to be installed at the first regular meeting in July: President, C. E. Krider; vice president, Charles Burgman; recording secretary, O. P. Kemp; financial secretary, E. F. DeLagrange; treasurer, R. W. Krieb; conductor, M. Croon; warden, E. B. Dolin; trustees, J. E. Miller, John Blee and H. J. Straub; auditors, R. H. Croon, J. H. Diller and J. B. Dolin; building trades delegates, E. C. Krider, Charles Burgman, E. F. DeLagrange, William Lickey and G. B. Dolin; Federation of Labor delegates, J. E. Miller, H. B. Straub, Francis Defrain, R. W. Krick and S. Werkman. Two candidates were initiated after the elections and the applications of several others were acted upon, to be taken into the brotherhood at another meeting. The Carpenters will continue holding open meetings for a few months at least, the next one to be held the evening of June 30. The meetings have been the means of adding many new names to the membership roll.

WILL GET EARLY ACTION.

Interstate Commission Will Deal Early With Rates.

News from New York is to the effect that the interstate commerce commission has practically agreed that it will not take advantage of the ten months' privilege to delay action on the increase of freight rates. It is said the railroad officials here received assurances that the new schedules will be acted upon immediately after the passage of the railroad bill so they can get the new rates for handling the bumper crops promised this year. Railroads do not fear any complaints of importance on the part of shippers in the new commerce court. It is said not a trust will come into court to challenge a rate because not one of them dares make public the exact cost of its product, as it would be compelled to do to show that the rate left no margin of profit.

GREATEST JUNE BUSINESS.

Wave of Prosperity Has Struck the Nickel Plate.

The greatest business in the line of freight for the month of June ever experienced by the Nickel Plate is now in progress. It compares favorably in volume with the business of the winter months, which are always much better freight seasons than in mid-summer. Eastbound the business is mainly high class, being dressed beef and live stock, while westbound merchandise and other high class freight forms an important part of the traffic. Passenger business on the road is also very good.

AN UNIQUE SIGN.

"Ten thousand rooters are wanted at the game Saturday," is the unique sign which was posted in conspicuous places in every department at the Wayne Knitting Mills this morning. The Knitters will play the Knott-Van-Arnam team at Reithmiller diamond tomorrow afternoon and they want to get out a crowd of sympathizers to encourage the players. In fact, this is a feature with the Knitters, who often have as spectators and enthusiastic "rooters" several hundred employes from the shops, a vast majority of them women. Other shop league games tomorrow are the Bass and Rolling Mills, the Wabash and Packards and the Pennsylvania and Electrics.

TO ARRANGE FOR EXCURSION.

Tomorrow E. E. Griest, J. H. Holbrook, J. A. Graham and B. F. Sarver, of the Pennsylvania, will go to Maxinkuckee, to look after the arrangements pertaining to their respective committees for the annual excursion of Pennsylvania employes Monday, June 27. This will be the first time the employes hold their annual picnic at Maxinkuckee and more attention is required to make arrangements for the proper entertainment of the big crowd than would be necessary were it held at Rome City, with which resort all are familiar.

"THE "POND LILY'S" CREW.

At 5 o'clock this evening the cottagers' train, known to all as "The Pond Lily," starts for Rome City on the first trip of the season and it is believed it will have a full load. The crew will be composed as follows: Conductor J. E. C. Lonergan, Engineer W. C. Mungovan, Fireman C. J. McDaniel and Brakemen J. C. Burwell and H. Fertig.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

J. C. Furge, J. H. Kamm and William J. Niezer, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

N. Ellis, a machinist at the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty on account of an affection of the eyes.

John Ebert resumed work at the Bass machine shop this morning. He had been at the lakes a few days.

Next Monday Mrs. J. Nominie will go to Cleveland, and Miss Helen Lindeman will go to Chicago. Mrs. Nominie is the wife and Miss Lindeman the daughter of Pennsylvania car builders.

F. Meyer and H. Burlager, who were sick several days, resumed work at the Pennsylvania pipefitting shop this morning.

Fred Eggeman, a recent graduate from Purdue, has taken employment in the motive power department of the Pennsylvania.

Winey Cruski, a laborer at the Bass foundry, sustained a painful, though not dangerous burn yesterday and will be unable to work for a few days.

Frank Brownsburger, a construction man for the Fort Wayne Electric works, has returned to the city, after installing some machinery in Ohio.

Frank Antonia, a laborer in the Wabash yard gang in this city, is suffering from typhoid fever and is in the company's hospital at Peru.

W. M. Hosterman, the electrician, went to Dola, O., this morning to make some repairs to the exectric machinery in the Pennsylvania company's pumping station.

Assistant Foreman Frank Opatz resumed work at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop this morning. He had been attending the wedding of a relative at Indianapolis.

James McKinney and A. C. Hettler, shop officials at Allegheny, returned to that city last night, after spending two days here on business for the Pennsylvania company.

Norton Hurst, brother to Division Storekeeper H. W. Hurst, of the Wabash, returned to St. Joseph, Mo., today. He expects to return here later and possibly take a position in the city.

Mrs. Pratt, of Chicago, who had been visiting her brother-in-law, Jacob Waldschmidt, of the Pennsylvania planing mills, left for her home this morning. She was here two or three weeks.

Division Engineer W. S. Danes, of the Wabash, who was in the city this morning on business connected with track elevation, has appointed John Campbell to the position formerly held by Michael Hontheim, in the waterworks department. Mr. Campbell resides in Wabash.

Yard Engineer Louis Sweeny, of the Pennsylvania, who suffers from rheumatism, is still unable to work. Engineer Harry Current has charge of engine 7109 during the absence of Mr. Sweeny.

Raymond Hoffman is now acting as foreman of the incandescent testing room of the Electric works, during the absence of M. S. Willson, who has been sick several months. L. C. Tucker, who formerly acted as foreman, left last week for New York to take another position with the company.

George H. Charlton, general passenger agent of the Chicago and Alton road, who was stricken with acute kidney trouble while riding in his private car last Wednesday, is improving and will recover. He was hastened to Chicago to be taken to a hospital, but when he reached that city his condition had improved and he insisted upon being taken to his home, where he is now said to be resting easily.

The Wayne Knitting mills company has had two pair of fire escape ladders placed on the new dormitory building at the knitting plant. The ladders are placed at the rear of the building and serve three sides, the west, north and south.

STATE CHAIRMAN IN CITY TO MEET LEADERS

Republicans Discuss Plans to Aid Candidacy of Judge Heaton.

Plans to aid the candidacy of Judge Owen N. Heaton for congress in this district was the theme that engaged the attention of E. M. Lee, republican state chairman, and a number of leading republicans from over the district, in a conference last evening at the Anthony hotel.

B. Paul Mossman presided and among those who spoke briefly in addition to the state chairman were District Chairman J. M. Henry, Mr. Mossman, C. S. Bash, Dr. C. B. Stemen, Judge O. N. Heaton, Archy Campbell, of Kendallville, and Hon. F. P. Willis, of the Waterloo Press.

The announced purpose of the state chairman's visit to Fort Wayne at this time was to meet some of the republican leaders of the district. It was his first trip here since his election to the head of the republican state committee, and Mr. Lee is making an effort to get into every district in the state before the beginning of active work of the campaign. In his talk to the Twelfth district workers Chairman Lee urged that party differences on the tariff and other questions be forgotten and that every energy bent toward the election of Judge Heaton. The state chairman returned to Indianapolis today.

Degenerate Gets Ten Days in Jail—The City Court.

To save the embarrassment of calling in a lot of young girls a charge of assault and battery was preferred in the city court today against Ford Rodabaugh and he was given $10 and costs and thirty days. The original affidavit for public indecency was changed. Rodabaugh said he lives at Milford, Ind., and stated that he was drunk yesterday and did not know what he was doing. The judge told him he didn't believe any such thing, but that in absence of evidence that the police held back to save girls from testifying he could not give him more.

Thomas Holman, a cripple who had been in before and who is one of the many that sit on the streets and beg enough money to get drunk on, was given $25 and costs for loitering.

Vice President Fish and Auditor Weir, of the Western Newspaper Union, were in the city today on a visit to the Fort Wayne Newspaper Union, which was recently acquired by the Western. GOLDFIELDS WILL GET THE BATTLE laws of Nevada are explicit and in that state there is nothing to prevent a dozen fights a day taking place as long as a regular permit is secured for each contest.

"Aylesworth, a Reno man in whom I have the greatest confidence, has wired me that the Reno people will build us an arena free of cost and provide us with a license. The lumber will come from the Tryckee mills and the arena can be erected wherever necessary in ten days.

"It will not be as big as the one we have been putting up in San Francisco, but at that it will be big enough. It will hold about 20,000.

"I had word from both Jeffries and Johnson that they will fight anywhere I want them to—Jeffries says on a barge if he has to."

Hotel Men Kick.

The San Francisco Hotel Men's association met last night and adopted resolutions condemning the efforts to prevent the fight.

The resolutions recited that for many years ring contests have been permitted in California without any legal interference and that it would work a great hardship to stop the present fight on account of the large number of visitors it would draw to the city.

Jack Johnson seems to be worrying more over the attachment of his automobile by George Little, his deposed manager, than over the fight muddle. But none of his troubles is affecting his appetite. After his workout yesterday he stood on the scales and found that he had gained two pounds in the last two days, tipping the beam at 215.

The champion said he probably would do only light gymnasium work today.

JEFFRIES READY TO MOVE.

Ben Lomond, Cal., June 17.—Whatever be the outcome of the tangle in which the scene of the big fight is involved, Sam Berger is prepared to take immediate action. After digesting the accounts of the situation in the San Francisco papers yesterday Jeffries' manager made arrangements to break camp at a moment's notice. He is hourly waiting word from Tex Rickard, giving different plans of the promoters Neither Berger nor the trainers think that a shift to Nevada would harm Jeffries. They point out that Jeffries is used to the mountains all his life and that a high altitude would have no terrors for him. Mountain climbing has always been favorite pastime for the champion and frequently he has indulged in hard exercise at an elevation of two thousand feet above sea level.

CHRIST SPIRIT IN BISHOP'S LETTER

alive religious and individual activity, in virtue of that strong power of suggestion, which collectively always exercises on the individual.

"Finally, from the various churches and religious denominations into which you Christians are divided, there arises a new unifying element, a noble aspiration, restraining too great impulsiveness, levelling dividing barriers and working for the realization of the only holy church through all the children of redemption. On this common ground, gentlemen, having your minds liberated from all passions, or sectarian intolerance, animated on the contrary by Christian charity, bringing together into one focus the results of your studies, the teachings of experience, whether individual or collective, calmly carry on research and promote discussion.

"May truth be as a shining light, illuminating your consciences and making you all of one heart and one mind. My desire for you is but the echo of Christ's words, which have resounded through the centuries. Let there be one flock and one shepherd."

KEEPING A HUSBAND'S LOVE.

The fact that your husband is your husband does not mean that his love will be always yours. You did your best to please and fascinate him before you were married? You need to be even more fascinating and pleasing now. And why? You did not belong to him before; now you do.

It is man's nature to be always in pursuit of something; therefore, if you wish to keep his love, you must keep up his interest in the chase. Never let him feel that he has actually captured you. Flirt with him, tease him (when he is in the proper mood for it). Keep up the romance as long as possible, and don't get commonplace. Flatter him; trust him, and be careful not to make him jealous.

Jealousy, though an excellent thing for a lover, is a very bad thing for a husband. One thing you must understand—it is a very occasional man who cares to be bothered with his wife's troubles. He may expect you to hear and share all his, but he looks for nothing but brightness and joy from you. It rests with yourself whether you think it worth while to humor him or not. Only, if you do not give him the consolaton he wants he will go elsewhere for it. Once lose him in this way and you may consider him lost forever. No man likes to see his wife looking untidy, or cross, or miserable; there may have been many things to make you so, but all too trivial to explain to him. The wife who wants to keep her husband's love must make up her mind to work for it. —Woman's Life.

SAYS TAFT HAS SO FAR PROVED A FAILURE

Prof. J. L. Laughlin Says President Has Fallen Down Badly.

Des Moines, Ia., June 17.—President Taft was held up as a failure before the graduating class of Drake university yesterday by Prof. J. Lawrence Laughlin, of the University of Chicago, who delivered the commencement address. He is head professor of political economy at the Midway institution.

The address, the subject of which was "Leadership," was a criticism of the president and his administration, and the graduating class was told to steer clear of men in whom such great trust had been placed, but who had failed in their stewardship.

Former President Roosevelt was lauded as a real leader and held up as an example. Prof. Laughlin contrasted the lives and administrations of the two presidents, declaring that the one was a tremendous success, while the other was as big a failure.

"Well Intentioned Failure."

"A tolerant, weak, well-intentioned failure," was the description of President Taft given by the Chicago professor. He had the greatest opportunity for leadership, Mr. Laughlin said, of any president who had entered the white house, but had failed through want of moral courage.

The "interests" were frequently referred to throughout the address of Prof. Laughlin, and their influence on President Taft, he said, was the cause of the failure of his administration. Contrasting Roosevelt and Taft, Prof. Laughlin said:

"On the one hand is the man who won the hearts of the people by taking them into his confidence, by standing out strongly against selfish and corrupting interests, and by aligning himself with the people on all questions. He had the wisdom to find out what the people wanted, and the moral strength to carry out their wishes. Special interests had no voice in his administration.

Sees Sharp Contrast.

"On the other hand is a man who stands out in sharp contrast. Possibly no greater opportunity ever confronted one man, but this one failed to grasp it. He failed to seize the opportunity to become the leader of a nation, an opportunity which he never will have again.

"He is weak in moral courage and listens to the voices of the selfish interests. He is a tolerable, weak, well intentioned failure. When he entered upon the office he did so while a public waited anxious and eager to accept him as leader. But he failed to respond to them."

"It cured me," or "It saved the life of my child," are the expressions you hear every day about Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This is true the world over where this valuable remedy has been introduced. No other medicine in use for diarrhoea or bowel complaints has received such general approval. The secret of the success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is that it cures. Sold by all dealers.

INVESTIGATING ALIENS.

Government Determining Industries Which Claim Immigrants.

Washington, June 17.—About 70,000 industrial workers comprising 20,000 families in 250 communities have been investigated by special agents of the immigration commission to get the data for the commission's series of reports on immigrants and industry which will be presented to congress from time to time. Twenty-five or more branches of industry in which immigrants are engaged have been investigated or investigations are under way. They include cotton goods, iron and steel, meat packing, clothing, glass, woolen goods, oil refining, tobacco, implement manufacture and anthracite coal mining.

The purpose of the investigations is to determine the effect of the more recent immigration upon industries, national industrial workers, and communities as well as the progress of recent immigrants as residents of the United States.

Lame shoulder is almost invariably caused by rheumatism of the muscles and yields quickly to the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment is not only prompt and effectual, but in no way disagreeable to use. Sold by all druggists.

OWEN GETS MORE PORK.

Washington, June 17.—Endorsing the location of the capital of Oklahoma at Oklahoma City, Senator Gore today obtained favorable action by the senate on a bill increasing from $250,000 to $450,000 the limit on the cost of the public building in that city.

The Oklahoma senator presented a favorable report on the bill from the committee on public buildings and grounds soon after the senate convened. He made a request for immediate consideration.

"Is Oklahoma City now the capital of Oklahoma?" asked Mr. Kean.

"According to the latest election returns it received twice as many votes as any of its competitors, and it is thought to be hereafter the capital of the state," replied Mr. Gore.

Crisp News of What's Doing in the Sporting World

Heat Weakened Corns in Final Round of His Game

Left-Hander Showed Great Form and Would Not Have Been Scored Against But for an Error.

Chasing the mercury up from 60 to 80 in a couple of days may be great pastime for the weather man and is undoubtedly good for vegetation but it don't help ball players any and is especially tough on the hurlers. This was demonstrated in the third battle with the quiet old gentlemen from Grand Rapids when Harry Corns, after holding the antiques to one hit and no runs for eight innings, nearly lost control in the closing round and allowed a couple of singles which, coupled with one lovely boot kicked in by the Philadelphia bricktop, sent one run scampering over and left a couple of runners on.

Anyhow, Corns got on the winning end of a five-to-one count and displayed better pitching form than he has shown this season. His curve ball was breaking fast for him, he had good control all the way through and he looked mighty good to his friends in the stand.

Joe Raidy and his gang were about as lively as the immediate family of the deceased. It was hard to pick Kihm out of the bunch. He made as much noise as any of the others and the whole outfit furnished about as much excitement as six well behaved pall bearers might be expected to chuck into a funeral procession.

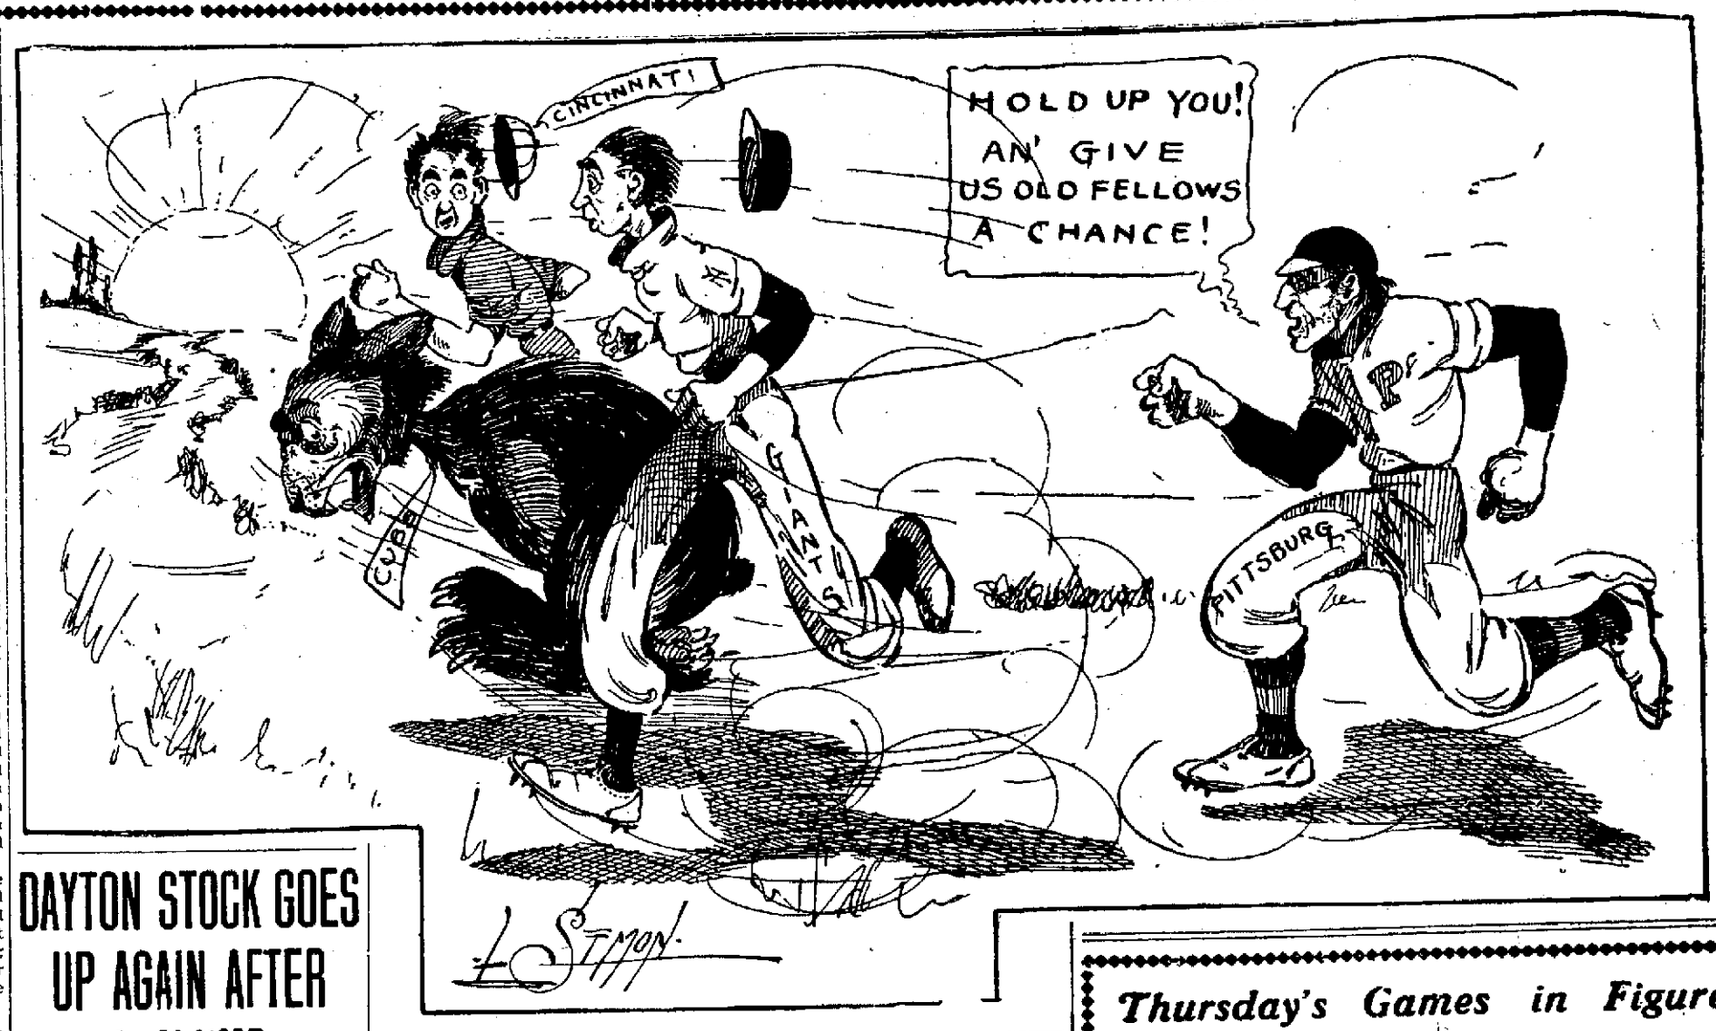
Joseph and his band were evidently thinking more about the reception they will get at home tomorrow than they were about the work at hand and went through the matinee in a listless sort of way and long Dave Martin looked like it was a real pleasure to be beaten. George Henry Tieman uncorked two of those famous high throws to second during the battle and each of them counted in the run getting.

Frankie Donahue's shift is the most beneficial happening of his career. In the three games he has played down below the catcher he has hit often enough to get him a .400 average for the trio of combats and several times he has "pinch-hit" runs right over the plate. He did this in the second inning.

After Young had beaten out a bounder to short, stolen second, taken third on Tieman's wild throw and lost out at the plate on some very stupid base running, Burke hit and moved up on Raidy's fumble of Gainer's drive. Donahue sent him in with a hit after Bailey had been stowed.

Gainer hit in the fifth and Donahue sent him to third with a single. When Donahue went down on the first ball pitched Tieman worked his second wild throw out of his system and Gainer scored, leaving Donahue on third, whence he romped home on Blount's slam to Danny Sheehan which the little third baseman could not field in time to get the runner.

In the sixth Justice did a little scientific batting and dropped the ball down between first and the pitcher and out of reach of both. Patterson sent him up with a sacrifice and Young scored him with a hit. Dal Gainer lined one to the flag pole for three bases and sent Young home.



ROUGH AND TUMBLES COMING FOR A SERIES

Terrible Tots Open on the Local Lot for a Big Clash.

William F. Groeschow, who has gone so long under the name of Cuppy that he calls himself that and signs his contracts that way, at the head of the terrible Tots, will be on exhibition for four days, beginning with a matinee tomorrow afternoon, at the local ball field.

This aggregation plays rough and tumble ball and has been getting away with it and it's a real novelty in this day of scientific, inside play. The Tots proceed on the same lines that John L. Sullivan followed in his ring career when he said he would give a man two good punches at him any time to get a chance for a knock-out swing.

The noble third-placers from Terre Haute are making the whole Central league sit up and take notice. Civil war broke out in the tribe that ought to have supported the Heathens before the band left home, but it went right out on the road, commenced playing its rough and tumble ball and got back from the first trip with more games won than it had lost.

Mr. Groeschow will present some new faces and a lot of old ones. Among those who have never been on exhibition in Fort Wayne before are Courtney, bought from the St. Louis Cardinals, and Curtiss, picked up some place, who along with Demon George Wheeler compose the outfield.

The infield is the same, with John Somerlott, the Angola lad who is attracting big league notice, on first; Sandy Murray at second, the pilot at short and Mickie McDonald on third. Eddie Goes is still a member of the backstopping department and Brennan, a new man is the other half.

Eddie Asher and Frederick "Cyclone" Alberts are members of the pitching staff and right here it might be well to remark that the cyclone has been going some since he was sold by Grand Rapids to Terre Haute. Then Rudy Summers, southpaw hurler, is also on the staff with a fellow who is generally spoken of as "Mother" Hennis. This Hennis person has been doing some star hurling. There is also one Derby, the fifth member of the pitching corps, who is also a stranger.

The Tots have always put up good battles here and this season the club is stronger as it is in third place with a fair lead over Grand Rapids. The series will be the last before Fort Wayne leaves for a trip to Grand Rapids and South Bend.

HARRY HOWELL GOES TO CALL UPON TOT PRESIDENT

May Be After Somerlott for the Browns is the Rumor.

[Special Correspondence.]

Wheeling, W. Va., June 17.—Harry Howell, who is giving his arm a season of rest in the hope that it will return to the pitching form he desires and is consuming the time scouting for the St. Louis Browns, stated that he would go from here to Terre Haute, which is taken as an indication that he is after John Somerlott and wants to beat the Pirate owners to him.

Howell says very little. When he is asked what he is looking for he simply replies "ball players." He says the Browns can use anything from a bat boy up as the club is in an awful rut and will have to be built up before it can make any sort of a showing.

He was not particularly impressed with the work of any of the Wheeling players and his visit to Terre Haute is regarded as an effort to land Somerlott. There is no doubt here that the long first baseman is the only man he saw that is likely big league timber.

Beveridge is a new man on the pitching staff and Bill Phillips says he just picked him up. He was started in the game here yesterday and showed good enough form to win from Terre Haute and when a hurler can hold that hard-hitting band down he is there with something.

On Wednesday when Humphries showed signs of going bad in the first inning Beveridge was sent out to warm up, but he was not needed. Wheeling has been beating the Tots pretty regularly, but there is little interest here and until the team is able to take a better place in the race the management is not expecting that the public will take hold.

BASE BALL Tomorrow

TERRE HAUTE vs. FORT WAYNE.

GAME CALLED AT 3:30.

DAYTON STOCK GOES UP AGAIN AFTER A SLUMP

Victories Over South Bend Serve to Increase the Interest.

[Special Correspondence.]

Dayton, O., June 17.—With a couple of victories over South Bend and six out of the last eight games played by the club safely stowed away on the winning side, the interest that had lagged sadly during the awful slump the club had on the last trip has been revived and the city is again in the race for the pennant.

By adding Brooks to his line-up Manager Punch Knoll thinks that he is proof against accidents or rather proof against being badly crippled by them when they do come.

In the first place Bobby Grogan is in the utility role and he has been in the Central league long enough for the average fan to know that he can take either an infield or an outfield place without much trouble and can do about as well on one job as on the other.

This new man Brooks played first base in the Southern league last season and was considered good enough at the station, but he did not want to play in the south again and in that way Knoll got hold of him. He will be played regularly in the outfield, but if Sykes should get hurt he can take his place.

In event Harry Martin and Catcher O'Brien should both be out of the game at the same time the manager could go back of the bat. As a matter of fact he started out as a catcher and liked it, but he is fast on his feet and for this reason he plays the outfield regularly.

In Neuschafer and Wacker the club has a couple of pretty fair hitters who can go to the outfield and just as the team is made up now it would take a pretty serious chapter of accidents to weaken it to any appreciable extent.

In trimming up South Bend in the third game of the series the Dayton club showed rare form with the stick. Corbitt was soon routed and Moffitt did not last long.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Raidy chucked big Millerick into the ninth inning to hit for Holt and Harry Corns breezed him.

Corns got down on a strike out in the seventh. He struck at a wild pitch and made first but was nipped trying for second.

Burke strained an ankle at second sliding in the fourth and gave way to McDermott.

Patterson succeeded in pulling the ball down between first and the pitcher's box and beating it out. He also delivered bunts when they were needed.

Young hit in one run to make up for his failure to score on Burke's out which would have been easy if he had started in time from third.

Holt played back for Gainer and robbed him of a home run. He could have scored on his three-base hit if Holt had not been playing for it.

Blount was called out at second on a very close play. He got one hit just when it was needed to score a run.

Craven Failed to Figure How He Made Any Money

Midge Craven left here yesterday for Grand Rapids, where he will engage in business on his own account, an uncle having bought for him a cigar stand and pool room for the purpose of giving him a start in the world.

Just before he left Lee Ivins tried to persuade him that he ought to stick to baseball as he could make more money. "Tell me nothing," said Lee. "You can make more money playing ball right along at a good salary than you can in a cigar store, especially in the summer time. This pool business is all right in the winter, but it's a dead one in the summer when you can pull down good money playing ball. Believe me, old kid, you better report right back to South Bend and stick."

"Not for mine," said Craven. "Let me tell you something. I was drafted into this league three or four years ago from the Southern Michigan and when I reported I had just $56 in good cash. I've been playing ever since at a good salary and I quit the other day owing $305. If you can figure where I made any money I'll eat my hat."

Craven is determined, he says, to quit. He had a hard time breaking away from the game and he hung around here several days before he finally made up his mind to go to Grand Rapids and take the pool room. He likes the game all well enough, but he hasn't been going good and nobody knows the reason any better than he does.

In his own words: "You can't drink beer and play baseball. I know I'm wrong and I ought to have a good jolt with a fast moving piston. But no more baseball for mine."

Craven announced a day or two ago that he expected Toddy Kroy to work for him this winter and as everybody knows, all the fingers are gone from Kroy's right hand. "That's just the reason I want him," said Craven. "He can't get as much money out of the cash register as a fellow with two good mitts."

ROOTERS WILL MAKE SHOW IF PLANS CARRY

Meeting to Be Held in the Assembly Room to Organize Club.

If 650 fans will pay 25 cents each for a badge and will march from the depot to the Hotel Oliver at South Bend on June 26 they can make that marching club the Benders brought in here last Sunday morning look like a corporal's guard.

At the suggestion of a number of ardent fans a meeting will be held in the assembly room at the courthouse tomorrow night for the purpose of forming the Fort Wayne Rooters' club and selecting a committee to arrange the details. Papers will be placed at the Wayne hotel, Lee Ivins' cigar store, Al Riegel's cigar store and the Germania cafe and the two bits can be paid at any one of these places and badges will be delivered as soon as they are printed.

With 650 fans contributing this two bits apiece the club can take along the Electro-Technic band of twenty-four pieces and get together a marching club that will make the town that is Fort Wayne's greatest rival "set" up and look.

At the meeting tomorrow night I. M. Hallenstein will be the temporary chairman and preside until the club is organized. He said he would like to give his time to the enterprise, but he has to take care of the busiest month in his store and he can't do it.

Plenty of accommodation will be provided for the trip, which will not take two hours, and Ticket Agent John Ross has given the assurance that there will be all the coaches necessary to carry as many as want to go.

Every individual will attend to his own railroad ticket and his meals as this would entail too much work if left to the committee that will be appointed from the club.

IN LIMELIGHT THURSDAY

Sheldon Lejeune got a home run with one man on at Zanesville and sent a runner over ahead of him in the game between Evansville and Zanesville.

Bill Phillips dug up a new pitcher named Beveridge and he performed in such fine style for Wheeling that Terre Haute was beaten 3 to 1.

Coombs held the White Sox to two hits but passed Charlie French once and hit him another time and gave the Duffy crowd plenty of chances to score, but came away with a 2-to-1 victory.

Reisling, pitching for Washington, was hit nine times in the game with St. Louis, but kept his hits so scattered that they were not productive.

Barney Schreiber held St. Joseph to four hits in the Western league and Denver won, 4 to 0, taking first place. McChesney, an outfielder for St. Joseph, made a double play unassisted, when he caught a line drive and ran into second and retired R. B. Kelly, former South Bend shortstop, who thought the drive was good and had started for third.

Catcher Stanage, Detroit catcher, and Arellanes, Boston pitcher, each got a home run with men on in a game that went to the Tigers by a score of 12 to 3.

Koestner pitched his first American league game for Cleveland and held New York to seven hits, winning by a score of 5 to 3.

Long Bob Ewing, recently traded by Cincinnati to Philadelphia, beat his former team mates 10 to 0. Manager Dooin and Second Baseman Knabe were suspended for a run-in with Umpire Klem.

President Lynch has announced the suspension of Captain Doyle and Manager Fred Clarke for disputing Rigler's decisions Wednesday.

McGlynn, who has been going bad for Milwaukee, held Columbus to five hits and won his game.

A batting rally in the eighth inning saved Earl Yingling from a good beating at the hands of Kansas City. Toledo scored four runs in the rally.

Al Orth hit a home run and a single which scored two runs and won for Indianapolis from St. Paul.

Cravath cleaned up the bases for Minneapolis in the game against Louisville and practically settled the outcome.

TIDBITS OF SPORTING NEWS

A lot of sentimental rot is being written about the league because Mickey O'Brien caught a game of ball the day that his little daughter died at his Alabama home, and continued to catch while the little one lay a corpse in the house and caught the day of the funeral. This the sport writers call loyalty. Mickey O'Brien's place was beside that grieving mother with his arms around her and the fan that can cheer a man for catching a baseball game with the picture of his dead baby in his mind is about the same brand that thinks it smart to throw pop bottles at the umpire.

A year ago today the Terre Haute team was at the bottom of the ladder and going badly. Today it is third and coming strong. Groeschow has a much stronger band now.

Grand Rapids Press: Of course every one has heard what a baseball jinx is. It is more popularly known to the layman as a hoodoo, but the ball players themselves call it a jinx. Bob Enos avers that Owner Annis appears to be the jinx of the local club and that the players are getting so that they hate to have him meet them on the road. For instance when the team left Grand Rapids Annis went to South Bend. He stayed at South Bend while the club went to Wheeling and Zanesville, Enos being in charge of the business affairs of the team. Then Annis took a sudden notion to join the team at Dayton, which he did, sending Sir Robert home. The result is that the team has lost every game since Annis has been with it. Can you beat it?

Addie Joss, of the Cleveland team, is in bad shape on account of an injured ligament in his pitching arm. He may be out for several weeks.

The Holland club of the newly organized Michigan State league, is about on the rocks because it can not get hold of any ball players. The organization was formed by Grand Rapids newspaper men.

Eddie Coffey misjudged a fly in the Dayton outfield and started back on it. When he saw he was wrong he tried to come in and slipped, but he stretched out his glove and caught the ball while he was lying on his stomach.

The Shamrocks will play at South Whitley next Sunday and will leave at 12:30 over the Nickel Plate. Robbins or Diederich will pitch.

Jack Zellers, with the B. P. O. E. team last season, has signed with the Shamrocks and will play his first game Sunday.

SAFE APERIENT FOR LITTLE ONES.

In extreme cases nothing equals castor oil administered on an empty stomach. If those in charge of children are careful and prescribe in time they will find that carbonate of magnesia is an excellent aperient. It keeps well in a corked bottle. The best way to give magnesia to children is to put it on top of a little milk and let it fall through it; in this way it becomes quite smooth when well mixed. The usual dose of carbonate of magnesia for a child is a teaspoonful.—Woman's Life.

It had been Mark Twain's ambition to have his books in every American home, and he made a great personal sacrifice to bring about this remarkable opportunity—for the first time in the history of publishing copyrighted books are sold at the price of non-copyrighted books—the chance will not come again.

But for Mark Twain's action this would have been impossible. Never before has a copyrighted library set of a standard author's works been issued at such a low figure.

"This is the authorized Uniform Edition of all my books." Mark Twain

THIS complete set of all the great humorist's works breathes his spirit—the spirit of eternal youth—they are new books; to own them is always to have new books, a fountain of youth. They never age, because humor, kindliness, and truth never grow old. Mark Twain himself wrote a preface to this edition. Brander Matthews has written the biographical criticism of Mark Twain and his work. There are portraits of the author from photographs and paintings taken at periods when the different books were in process of writing. This edition includes his later collected writings, such as "Eve's Diary," etc., etc.

Brander Matthews says: "Mark Twain will be included in that group of writers headed by Molière and Cervantes. With the exception of Count Tolstoi, Twain was the greatest of recent modern writers and will be handed down to posterity through the trio of his works 'Huckleberry Finn,' 'Tom Sawyer,' and 'Pudd'nhead Wilson.' Twain is a greater stylist than Stevenson or Thoreau, and his 'Man that Corrupted Hadleyburg' is one of the finest works in English literature."

THERE are beautiful pictures by such artists as Brown, Frost, Newell, Beard, Dielman, Smedley, Thulstrup, Clinedinst, Mora, Weldon, Kemble, Gilbert, Du Mond, Merrill, Opper.

THE binding is in rich red rep silk book cloth with title labels stamped in gold. The books are printed on white antique wove paper, especially made for this edition. Each volume is of generous size and bulk, 5x7½ inches.

STATEN ISLAND GYPSY CAMP BOASTS FREAKIEST OF HORSES.

Shaggy Animal Said to Be a Cross Between a Horse and a Buffalo—Roosevelt to Be Asked to Pass on the Creature.

STATEN ISLAND'S FREAK BEAST.

New York, June 15.—Staten Island has entered the "nature faking" arena with a most peculiar animal, said to be a cross between a horse and a buffalo. The beast is in the possession of a troupe of gypsies encamped on the south shore of the island, near Midland Beach, and is most jealously guarded by them. At the gypsy camp today the occupants refused absolutely to show the animal or to discuss it at all. After a search in the underbrush in the vicinity, however, the quadruped was discovered in a little clearing and a picture was obtained.

The curious animal stands about the height of an ordinary donkey, and its small and well formed head is not unlike that of an Arabian horse. Its legs and body, however, are very heavy, and all out of proportion to its head. The body is covered entirely with a growth of long, shaggy hair, similar to that on the body of a buffalo. It seemed to be extremely wild, retreating to the end of its tether and trembling all over.

It is said that a delegation of New York's most prominent citizens will wait upon a certain well known hunter when he returns to New York shortly and ask that he inspect and pass upon the beast, in order that that section of the island may not be classed among the "Shorter and Uglier Word Club."

HOBBIES.

"As a family we have never gone in for 'hobbies,' and it has been a great miss in our lives," remarked a middle aged woman the other day. "When we were children they were called 'manias,' and were always discouraged. Mother would say to Tom: 'I wish you would not bring home any more butterflies. They only harbor dust and scent your bedroom with naphthalene.' Another brother was very keen on fossils. 'You will become one yourself,' said dad. 'Throw the silly things away and go and play foot ball.' Sketching, I was told, was waste of time. 'Far better learn to knit or to do something useful.' As if one could spend one's whole life being useful!

"My sister was very keen on fancy work. She came back from school versed in every kind of embroidery. You might have thought that mother would be proud of her beautiful work, but it seemed only to annoy her. 'I wish you would leave your everlasting stitching and go and dust the drawing room.' 'How you can do embroidery when the lawn wants sweeping is something I can't understand.' And so on, until she threw away her needle and silks as I had discarded my paint brushes, in despair, and never touched them again. Now we are four middle aged people living together, and those 'hobbies,' if we had only cultivated them, would be an absolute boon to us. But it is too late either to take them up again or to find new ones. We spend dull, uninteresting lives, and in our leisure moments we sit with hands before us, doing nothing. We have nothing particular to draw people to us—no interest in common with others to form a bond of sympathy between us. Around us are friends, young and old, each with a hobby of some kind. One takes 'snapshots,' and has the constant excitement of developing films or plates. A commonplace person, nevertheless he attracts an admiring throng about him. The stamp collecting of another proves both fascinating and lucrative. A third is devoted to music and arranges all the local concerts, being quite a 'personage' on this account. In short, everybody 'goes in' for something except ourselves. And that is why everyone is happier than are we," the middle aged woman concluded sadly.—Home Notes.

The west end of Trinity churchyard used to be a high bluff. It was a favorite resort for the inhabitants in that part of the town. From the top there was an uninterrupted view of the Hudson. It was in early days as much of a promenade as is Riverside at the present time.—New York Press.

SAGE AND SULPHUR

Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss
COUNTY OF MONROE } ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

OUR SHORT STORY PAGE

The ARGONAUTS

By Morgan Robertson

Copyright 1909, by Benj. B. Hampton

A FEW months ago I attended a banquet and left it as I always leave such functions, hungry. Entering an all-night lunch room I took a seat, and gave my order to a waiter, who, when he had filled it, sat down at the table with me. It was very late, and his duties were light.

"You're looking well," he remarked, as his glance traveled over my evening clothes. "You're dead swell, but the last time I saw you, you were covered with mud, carrying a stern line ashore in the Welland Canal."

"You seem to have the advantage of me," I said. "I know the Welland Canal, however, though I am trying to forget that ditch."

"You can't," he laughed. "No man can who ever went through it. That trip with you in the old Samana was my first and last. I struck for salt water again when the old man paid me off at Port Colborne. Don't you remember going to school with me?" He mentioned his name, and with a little effort I recalled him—a schoolmate a little older than myself, who had gone to sea early in life, and returned a full-fledged salt-water navigator, to ship, on his record, as first mate in the schooner that carried me before the mast, and to meet his Waterloo in the Welland Canal, the navigation of which demands qualities never taught nor acquired in the curriculum of seafaring. After grounding the schooner several times, parting every line on board, and driving us to open revolt by the extra work coming of his mistakes, he was discharged by the skipper. As I thought of all this the grumbling sailor rose within me, and there at the table, he a waiter, I a writer, we fought out a grudge of twenty years' standing. But it ended amicably; I called him a farmer, he called me a soldier, and we shook hands.

"I've learned," he said, as we settled back, "only in the last month or so, that you're the fellow that writes these rotten sea stories. Why don't you write real sea stories?"

"For the same reason that you don't serve a real Welsh rabbit," I answered, tapping the now cold concoction he had served me. "I couldn't sell a real story. Truth is too strange to pose as fiction."

"We're all bluffers, I guess. You are, here in this beanery with your glad rags on. I am, too—no, not now. I'm slinging hash, and glad of the chance. But I was a millionaire for a time. Not long. But while it lasted I had dreams—big dreams."

"You must have read in the papers a few weeks back," he began, "about that bunch of college men that chartered the old racer Mayflower, filled her up with diving gear and dynamite, and went down after the treasure in the Santa Margherita."

I nodded assent. "Yes, and a hurricane hit them and they barely escaped."

"They're keeping mum," he said, "and mean to try again; but it's no use. That treasure is seven hundred miles to the nor' nor'east now, and I was about the last man to look at it. It's resting in the hold of a small schooner, sunk in four hundred fathoms. I never heard of that treasure ship until about three years ago, when I quit a brigantine at Cedar Keys and mixed in with the boarding-house crowd. There was a fellow out of a job named Gleason, and he had a chart in his pocket that he talked about, but never showed. He told us all about that old Spanish ship that went down with all hands in the sixteenth century, carrying with her about seven millions' worth of gold, silver, and jewels; and he knew the location. He had got it from a drunken diver who had seen her on the sea bottom, spelled her dingy old name on the stern, and saved the news to himself while he wormed out of the skipper the latitude and longitude of the place. And now he wanted to enlist capital, or make up a crew of men that would do the work. Dead easy, he said. Just to get there, drag the bottom with two boats and a length of chain until the wreck was located, then to go down in a diving suit, hook on to the chests and hoist them up.

"Well, in the crowd that he talked to there wasn't a dollar. We were all dead broke, but we were all ambitious. There was Pango Pete, a nigger six foot tall, who couldn't write his name, but he was a seaman from his feet up; and a Dago named Pedro Pasqualai. These two were the kind that will choke you before they ask the time of night. Then there was Sullivan, old man Sullivan, a decrepit old codger who had sailed second mate all his life, and never got a first mate's berth because he couldn't master navigation. And there was Peters, a young fellow filled up with the romance and the glory of the life at sea—rot, as you and I know, but he was enthusiastic, and that was enough. A trio of Dutchmen were taken in—Wagner, Weiss, and Myers, three good fellows down on their luck. A Portuguese named Christo, and two Sou'wegian brothers named Swanson completed the bunch. We talked it over down at the end of the fruit dock, where the oyster boats come in and make fast, and where the downs-and-outs congregate to smoke and boast of the prosperous past.

"But this crowd talked of the prosperous future. Seven millions, said Gleason, lay down there off Turks Island in less than sixty fathoms, and all we needed was some kind of a craft to get us there, a diving suit, and a storage battery to light up a bulb to search for the treasure. These things seemed beyond our reach, until a schooner came in for supplies. We sized her up, and Gleason went up. There were the diving dresses we needed: there was the storage battery; there were the extra anchors for mooring a craft over a certain spot, and the air pumps and paraphernalia for diving operations, scattered about the deck. She was a small craft, and was manned by men who did not act and talk like sailors. There seemed to be no skipper, and they smoked on deck while working, and talked back and forth as though all were equal.

"'A company,' said Gleason, 'just like us, only they've got the money, and possibly the secret. Well, the company that gets the loot owns it, and such matters as the ownership of the schooner and the outfit can be settled afterwards, possibly out of court. What do you say? Are you game?'

"We were. We laid low, but watched, and when that schooner was filled up with grub, we were ready to raid her and chuck the crew overboard; but it wasn't necessary to do the latter. They filled up too late for the tide and went ashore for the evening, leaving no one aboard but a Japanese cook. We remembered as we climbed aboard after dark, that we hadn't a man among us who could cook, and so, instead of dropping that Jap over the rail, we simply locked him into a stateroom and made sail.

"Naturally, as Gleason originated the scheme, he was elected captain, but, as I was the only navigator in the crowd, I was made first mate, and the big nigger, Pango Pete, second mate.

"After we were around the Cape, Gleason gave me the latitude and longitude of the spot, and I made for it. It took me two or three days of careful observations and calculations before I announced that we were within six seconds of the spot, which is all that navigation will do. Then we dropped anchor and began to drag. We knotted together every line we had, and in the middle we had a length of mooring chain that would stick to the bottom. We kept two small boats, to which this was attached, a quarter of a mile apart and pulled on parallel lines, and at last felt a drag; then we pulled together, gathering in the slack, and when we met, the schooner, under charge of Gleason, came up and anchored, over the spot.

"I was the only man there who had any diving experience, so I went down. Say, have you ever been under water in a diving suit, trusting your life to the fellows above who pump the air into your helmet? No? Well, it's a curious experience. I had the feeling as I went down that I was number thirteen of that bunch, and that they only needed to shut off my air supply to make their number twelve instead of thirteen. But that didn't happen; they pumped, and I breathed and saw the old galleon, the Santa Margherita. She lay there, heeled over to starboard, covered with the ooze and the slime of the sea, with barnacles everywhere.

"The deck and rail were a foot thick with mud, and the small, spardeck guns could hardly be distinguished. I saw at once that I would need help, and signaled to be hauled up. On deck I told the news and all hands, even the Jap, went crazy over it. We got out two more diving suits, rigged a bulb for each, and Pango, Peters, and myself went down again.

"Now, this isn't a yarn of the finding of that treasure. Anyone can invent such yarns, and I've read dozens of them. They all wind up successfully, with each man wealthy and happy. This is a yarn of the men who found that treasure, and what happened to them. So, I'll just say that we didn't find a skeleton or a ghost when we got below decks. All hands were up, I suppose, when that ship went down, and the rush of water as she plunged, washed them off. We found seven big chests in the 'tween decks forward of the cabin, and in them all were coins, and jewelry, and here and there in the mess, what might have been an opal, or some kind of jewel. All the stuff was black from the action of the salt water; but we knew we had the real thing, and hooked on tackles. We had to come up to help each time we lifted a chest, for, after the chest was out of water, it was too heavy for the crowd above; but at last they were all up, and stowed snugly on the floor of the cabin. Then, after final search for other loot worth taking, we picked up our anchor and cleared out, not yet having decided where we were going.

"We were pirates under the law, and didn't know but what all the revenue cutters on the coast were looking for us, for the theft of that schooner. But with seven millions of bullion and jewels, melted down, counted up, and translated into cash in some bank, we didn't care for the charge of piracy. The real trouble was to get that stuff translated, and while we argued we sailed due east, out into the broad Atlantic. Peters, the young enthusiast, had been a jeweler, and he told us that nothing short of a blast of air in conjunction with the heat of a fire would melt gold and silver. Well, where could we set up a blast furnace with not a dollar in the party? My suggestion—and I was backed by Gleason, Peters, and old man Sullivan—was that we count out the loot, separate every salable jewel, and make some big port like New York, Liverpool, or Rio Janeiro, sell the jewels and get ready money with which to plan for the disposal of the rest; but we had to deal with men like Pango, Christo, Pedro, and the three Dutchmen, who didn't know what they were up against. They wanted an immediate count up and division; then, each man to go his way. The nonsense of it did not strike them; thirteen men to divide up seven heavy chests—each one shouldering seven-thirteenths of a load that took the whole thirteen to lift with a four-fold tackle. We asked the Jap cook what he thought, but he had no opinion.

"It's somewhat curious how the different men of that bunch had different ideas of what they wanted. Young Peters wanted to go back to his native town and win the girl that had soured on him because he was poor. Pango, Pedro, and the two Sou'wegians only wanted a big drunk. Old Man Sullivan wanted a course in a Nautical School and a first mate's certificate. The three Germans wanted to get to New York and set up in the saloon business. Gleason wanted to study law, and I wanted to study medicine and be a doctor, a gentleman who could enter any society in the world. The Jap didn't give out his aspirations.

"And so, growling like an unhappy family in a menagerie, we sailed east, with the question unsettled. But at last we won over the Dagoes and the Dutchmen, and agreed upon New York as a port, and the selling of the jewels in some Bowery pawnshop, where no questions are asked. Then we shook hands all round, gave the Jap hell about his cooking—for we had been too worried to attend to that matter before—and squared away before the trade wind for Sandy Hook and a market.

"From jealousy and mutual distrust, we all slept in the cabin. There were plenty of staterooms for the crowd, though some of us doubled up. None of us wanted to remain away from the seven chests of treasure, and the Japanese cook, who might have slept in the cook's room next the galley, still showed a preference for his room in the cabin, and we did not contest it. But now we were millionaires and easy—dead easy. We stood watch, steered and trimmed sail with no man for boss, for now the work was done, Gleason and myself and the nigger Pango gave up our false positions. We were a democracy, and loved and trusted one another, only, when we roused out the watch below and found that Old Man Sullivan did not come, and on investigation found him stone dead in his berth without a sign of violence, we forgot our brotherly love and began to wonder.

"We did not know what he died of, but we gave him sea burial that day, and Gleason read a chapter from the book. We concluded that the old man had died of heart failure, or old age, and thought no more about it after the day had passed. But, when we called the watch at eight bells next mornin', we couldn't get one of the Swanson brothers up. He was cold and stiff; and there was nothing wrong with him either. That is, he had turned in cheerful and healthy and died during sleep, leaving no sign.

"The other Swanson raised merry hell that day, raving about the deck, mourning for his dead brother. But his grief was short-lived, for when we tried to waken him next watch he was cold and stiff. We buried him with the ceremonies, and began to think—all of us. We wondered whether men may rake up ill-gotten treasure from a dead past without coming under influences of that dead past. We thought of the conquered and enslaved natives, laboring in the mines for the aggrandizement and enrichment of Spain, and giving up their lives in the work, unrecognized and forgotten, while their exploiters, the children and relatives of Ferdinand and Isabella, sat back in luxury and self-satisfaction. We wondered as to what was killing our shipmates, ghosts or poison.

"Naturally, we suspected the cook, and Pango, the Dagoes, and the surviving Sou'wegian were for tossing him overboard; but the rest of us wouldn't have it. There was no evidence of poison, and as we'd done no killing so far in our piratical venture, we'd better keep clear of it now, with so much at stake. A court that would acquit us as soldiers of fortune that had merely borrowed a schooner might hang us as pirates and murderers; but we watched the Jap. We kept him away from the grub while we ate it. He brought it on in two or more big dishes, and there was no chance of his poisoning one without the rest. We weren't afraid of that.

"We couldn't waken him at eight bells and we knew his troubles were over."

"I examined Swanson thoroughly before we buried him, and there wasn't a mark on him, or a sign of anything out of the way, except what didn't seem in any way important, just below each ear, and back of the corner of the cheek bone, was a little pink spot; but there was no blood, and no sign of finger prints on the throat.

"Peters, the romantic young fellow, got ghosts on his mind, and as he thought about it, they got on his nerves. He couldn't sleep, and walked around, up and down from the cabin to the deck. The others slept in their watch below, and on that night nobody died. But the next night Peters was too exhausted to stay awake, and he went to sleep on the cabin floor alongside the chests. We couldn't waken him at eight bells, and we knew his troubles were over. At daylight I examined his body. Nothing wrong, only the two little pink spots under the ears. We buried him at daylight, with scant pretense of a burial service. Things were looking serious.

"All this time we were plowing along before the trade wind, but it soon panned out and we had light, shifty airs from all directions, with rain—regular Gulf Stream weather. It made us bad-tempered, and Pango and Gleason had a fight. It was a bad fight, and we couldn't stop them; both were powerful men, and as they brushed into me in their whirling lunge along the deck, locked tight, they knocked me six feet away. When I got to my feet, Pango had Gleason down and was choking him. I got a handspike and battered that coon's head with it; but he wouldn't let go, and before others came up to help he had killed him. He went for me, but had to stop before the handspikes of the crowd.

"Now, with Gleason dead, the command devolved upon me or Pango, and this fellow was in a mood to demand the place. He could lick any three of us, but not all hands; but, while we were growling about it and cooling down, we found other troubles to keep us busy. We had piled several tons' weight on the weak cabin floor timbers of an old schooner, and of a sudden, down they crashed to the hold below, leaving a yawning hole in the cabin floor and starting a butt or two in the planking. It was pump, pump, pump, now, for we couldn't rig any kind of a purchase to clear those busted chests away from the leak. Pango was a good worker, and, under the pressure of extreme fatigue, we forgot our grudges. I did not care for the cheap position of command over a bunch of foreigners, and so we made Pango skipper, while I remained navigator and mate. Pango promptly quit pumping, saying that skippers don't pump. And that night he quit everything. As skipper he stood no watch, but at breakfast time he was cold, with the same little marks under his ears. On his skin, however, they showed a brownish black.

"Gleason had been choked to death, and I had examined the imprint of Pango's fingers before we buried him. There was hardly a sign; nothing at all to show that the little pink spots came from the pressure of a strangler's grip. Besides, you cannot choke a man asleep without waking him. He would make some kind of a fuss, and apprise others; but that never happened.

"There were but seven of us now, three Germans, two Dagoes, the Jap and myself. I talked with that Jap. He was an educated man, highly trained in one of our universities; but he couldn't tell me anything, he said. It was all mysterious and horrible—this quiet taking off of men while they slept. As for poisoning, of which he knew he was suspected, it was absurd. There was no poison on board, to begin with; and why should he, a landsman, seek to poison the men who could take the ship and treasure to port? What could he do alone on the sea. This was logical, and as he was a small, weak and confiding sort of creature, I exonerated him in my mind from any suspicion of choking the victims.

"That night the two Dagoes, Pedro and Christo, passed into the land beyond. There were the same little marks, but nothing else. Weiss, Wagner and Myers, the three Germans, got nutty about this time, and talked together in their lingo while they pumped; and when they were alone they talked to themselves. I confess that I got nutty. Who wouldn't, with this menace hanging over him? I walked around the deck when I was off pump duty, and I remember that I planned a great school where ambitious young sailor men could study medicine, and escape the drudgery of a life 'fore the mast. Then I planned free eating houses for tramps, and I was going to use some of my wealth to investigate the private life of a Sunday school superintendent, who, when I was a kid, predicted that I would come to a bad end. You see, we never can judge of our own mental condition at the time. It's only when you look back that you can take stock of yourself. The result of this mental disturbance upon me was insomnia. I couldn't get to sleep; but I kept track of the ship, and worried the three Dutchmen and the Jap into trimming sail when necessary.

"We'd got up to the latitude of the Bermudas, I think, and I was beginning to hope that the curse had left us; for we had passed through three nights without a man dying. But on a stormy morning, when the gaff topsails were blown away, and we four men—for the Jap was useless on deck—were trying to get a couple of reefs in the mainsail, Wagner suddenly howled out a lot of Dutch language and jumped overboard. I flung him a line, but he wouldn't take it, and passed astern. The poor devil had taken the national remedy for trouble. Did you ever notice it in Germans, even the best? When things go wrong they kill themselves. They're something like the Chinese in this.

"There were only four of us now, counting the Jap, who still spoiled good grub, and it took a long time to snug that schooner down to double reefs and one head sail. The water in the hold had gained on us, and we pumped while we could stand it, then knocked off, and dropped down on deck for a snooze. We were dead beat, and told the cook to call us if the wind freshened or if anything happened. He didn't call us, but something happened. I wakened in time, and stood up, sleepy and stupid and cold; for you can't sleep on deck, even in the tropics, without getting chilled; and we were up to thirty-six north. The Jap was fooling round the galley, and the schooner, with the wheel becketed, was lifting up and falling off, practically steering herself, by-the-wind. Of course, I thought of the water in the hold, and sounded the well. There was four feet of wet line, and I knew that things were bad. Then I went to the two Dutchmen, to call them to the pumps, and found them cold and stiff, each with the little pink marks under the ears.

"Well, I naturally went more or less crazy. I took that Jap by the throat and asked him what had happened. He did not know, he said. He had left us to sleep, and rest, sorry for us, and trying to cook us a good meal, when we wakened. He was in a shaking fright, trembling and quavering, and I eased up. What was the use of anger and suspicion in the face of this horrible threat of death while you slept? We hove the two bodies overboard, and made a stagger at the pump; but we could not lessen the water in the hold, and at last I gave up, cleared away a boat, and stocked it with water and grub for two. Meanwhile I shaped a course for the Bermudas, and steered it after a fashion, hoping that I might beach the schooner and get, out of some court of salvage, a part of that seven millions down in the hold.

"But I had to steer, and keep the deck, for the Jap was useless. I kept it up until we sighted land, and then flopped, done up, tired out, utterly exhausted by work, and yet unable to sleep. I sang out to the cook, as I lay down on the hatch, to try and steer toward that blot of blue on the horizon, and then passed into a semidazed state of mind that was not sleep, nor yet wakefulness; I could hear, and, through my half-opened eyelids, could see; yet I was not awake, for I could not guard myself. I saw that Jap creeping toward me. I saw the furtive murderous glint in his beady eyes. I heard the soft pat of his feet on the wet deck, and I heard his suppressed breathing. But I could not move or speak.

"He came and stood over me, then reached down and softly pressed the tips of his forefingers into my throat, just below the ears and back of the cheek bones. Softly at first, so that I hardly felt it, then more strongly, and a sense of weakness of body came over me, something distinct from the weakness that I had felt while sinking down to try and sleep. It seemed a stopping of breath. I could not move, as yet, but could see, out of the corners of my eye, and a more hateful, murderous face never afflicted me than the face of that Japanese cook.

"He kept it up, steadily increasing the pressure, and soon I realized that I was not breathing. Then, I do not know why, there came to me the thought of that Sunday school superintendent, and his advice, to pray when in trouble. I forgot my grouch. I said to myself, 'God help me, God help me,' and I wakened. I found that I could move. I shook off the Jap, and he staggered back, chuckling and muttering in his language. I rose to my feet, weak and shaky, and he ran away from me; but I found myself without power to follow. I was more than weak; I was just alive, just able to breathe, but I could not speak. I tried to, but the words would not come. He shut himself into his galley, and, with regard to the condition of the schooner, and my own helplessness, I painfully climbed into the boat I had stocked and cleared away the davit falls. Then I lay down.

"I have a dim remembrance of that sleep in the boat, of waking occasionally to drive that cowardly Jap off with an upraised oar; of my utter inability to speak to him, and the awful difficulty of taking a long breath. But the final plunge of the schooner stands out. I was awake, or as nearly awake as I could be. The Jap was forward, and the decks were awash. I knew that she was going down, and got out my knife to cut the falls when the boat floated. I did this successfully, for, though I could not speak, I could move, and as the schooner plunged under, and the screams of that heathen rang in my ears, I cut the bow tackle, then the stern tackle, and found myself adrift in a turmoil of whirlpools.

"I was picked up a few days later by a fruiter, and taken into New York. I found my hair had turned white. I've been working as a waiter most of the time since, hoping to enlist somebody's interest toward salving that schooner; but it's no go. I'm going to Cuba, where I've heard of a pot of money in the Santiago hills. Want to go along?"

"No," I answered. "But, tell me, what killed those men?"

"The Jap must have been an expert in jiu jitsu, the wrestling game of that country. I've made a stagger at studying medicine since then, and learned a little. The pneumogastric nerve did the business. It passes from the base of the brain, down past the heart and lungs and ends near the stomach. It is motor, sensory, and sympathetic, all in one. Gentle pressure inhibits breathing, continued pressure, or stimulus, paralyzes the vocal chords; a continuance of the stimulus renders you unconscious, and a strong pressure brings about stoppage of the heart action, and death."

STRENGTH FOR A WEAK STOMACH

Read What a Cincinnati Woman Says About the Tonic Treatment That Brought Back Her Health.

Are you making the mistake of so many sufferers from stomach trouble by using predigested foods, digestive ferments and stimulating medicines in your effort to get relief from your trouble? If so this explains why you are still a sufferer.

To treat stomach trouble with stimulating medicines, which only force the stomach to work beyond its strength, or with predigested food and medicines, which require no work on the part of the stomach, not merely puts off the day for a cure but further increases the weakness of the stomach.

Almost without exception stomach trouble is caused by a general lowering of the vitality, either through overwork, indiscretions in living, or sickness. Impoverished blood and weak nerves result.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the most direct cure for stomach trouble because they are a certain blood builder. Pure blood makes healthy nerves and strengthens the entire body. The weak stomach gets plenty of healthy blood and nervous energy, and perfect digestion follows.

Mrs. C. J. Knodle, of No. 3083 Harrison avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio, says:

"After my first child was born I began to suffer from stomach trouble and got no relief for four years. I could eat nothing but light foods and even these caused pains so intense that I can't describe them. My stomach would seldom retain much food and I was troubled with gas an awful lot. I was constipated and sick enough most of the time to be in bed but I wouldn't give up.

"My doctors didn't help me much. They said they could relieve me but did not lead me to expect a cure. I was telling our druggist one day about my case when he asked me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills helped me almost immediately and after I had taken a few boxes was entirely cured. I have never had any trouble with my stomach since and believe the pills will cure anyone, who is suffering as I did, if they are taken as directed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best and cheapest medicine I have ever taken."

Our free diet booklet will be sent upon request to any sufferer.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS.

Some Topics In the Family Room of Highly Respectable People.

THE wind tore wildly at the casements and shrieked about the house, while the snow which had been falling for several days lay upon the ground in mountainous drifts. The mistress of the home looked toward the window every few minutes, and it was with a sigh of relief that she saw finally her husband's aeroplane making its way slowly toward home.

The two daughters sat poring over fashion books, and the tables and chairs were covered with frail and filmsy materials, delicate silks, lingeries, chiffons and crapes.

"Let us get these things out of the way, my dears," said the mother, "or your father will think that we are arranging for a trip to the tropics."

"How absurd you are, mother," said the oldest girl. "Any one would know that we are merely deciding how to have our summer things made after the early fall fashions."

"I wish it would stop blowing," said the second girl. "I meant to go out to the hothouse and get something for dinner."

"Never mind, dear," the mother said, smiling at the thoughtful girl. "We will fall back on the peaches. What flowers have you for the table, my child?" speaking to the oldest girl.

"Chrysanthemums," she replied, a note of triumph in her voice. "They are so springlike. The gardener showed me, too, how nicely the holly and mistletoe are coming on. They will be in full berry for our Fourth of July decorations."

"How the time goes!" sighed the mother. "It will soon be midsummer, and then we will sit on hotel porches and sew on undesired and undesirable Christmas gifts and go to fairs and bazaars and buy more of them—quantities and quantities of the hideous things."

"Here is father!" cried the oldest girl, endeavoring to divert her parent from this melancholy vision. "I am glad we have such a good dinner—venison and green corn and"—

"Very heavy sailing," said the father, appearing in the door. "But there are good reports. The weather bureau has put out bulletins promising the public that they will be able absolutely to regulate the weather conditions. Just as much rain as is needed will fall, no more. Nothing except a flurry now and then to make the June roses glow by contrast. It is the end, thank goodness, of those superannuated old seasons."

"Fancy," said the youngest daughter, "how slow and stupid it must have been—four seasons divided off like boxes and appropriate flowers, fruits, vegetables and clothes for each!"

"And yet they were pleasant," said the mother, a reminiscent tear in her eyes.

"Oh, mother, dear," cried the younger generation in chorus, "do be careful! If you remember too much people will know that you are older than your daughters, and that is the greatest tragedy that can befall a modern mother."—Life.

WILL DROP A FARM.

St. Louis, Mo., June 16.—A five-acre farm will be dropped from the sky when the aeroplane flight across the state from St. Louis to Kansas City is held in July. The Missouri state board of immigration announced today that before the aeroplanists leave St. Louis they will be provided with cards, one of which will entitle the finder to five acres of Missouri land.

The cards are to be dropped in the flight. The land to be given away is located in Washington county, forty miles from St. Louis.

DEMOCRATS CHARGE VOTE BUYING IN PRIMARIES

Leaders at Evansville to Send Affidavits to Governor.

Evansville, Ind., June 17.—Democrats of Evansville will forward to Governor Marshall this week fifty affidavits charging that republican candidates in the county primary on May 17 bought or assisted in buying votes.

Charges of this character have been rumored for some time and the fact that private detectives had been working on the case and that democratic leaders made a mystery of something which they said would create a sensation when it was sprung, leads republicans to the conclusion that they intend to bring criminal charges if they can.

Marshall is Consulted.

The governor's attention was first called to alleged debauchery of the primary ballot a few days after the election, it is said, and he promised then, if there was sufficient evidence warranting action, he would be glad to interfere in the local situation. At the time he passed through the city three weeks ago on his way to Tuscaloosa, Ala., he met and talked a few minutes with democratic leaders, among them former Mayor Nolan, concerning the charges about vote buying in the primary.

Detectives Davis and Houghland, formerly with the city police, but now operating a private agency, have been gathering the evidence. Davis is the democratic candidate for sheriff. The democratic county candidates united yesterday in an appeal to the public to discountenance vote buying.

It is said the candidates are expecting Governor Marshall to authorize special deputies for the polls next election day.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will brace up the nerves, banish sick headache, prevent despondency and invigorate the whole system. Sold by all dealers.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., June 17.—Mercury in the thermometer on the rise today might easily have been used as an index of the price of wheat. Apprehension as to the fact of dryness and warmth and the growing crop of spring wheat northwest was the thought uppermost in the minds of speculators. Some of the largest houses rebe joined the buying movement. A tip from a leading trader who is at Fargo, N. D., told of the hottest day in ten years and asserted that wheat was going back in a manner little short of alarming. Telegrams from other places on the same date declared spots were beginning to show in the fields and roots were suffering as well as blades. September opened unchanged to ¼c higher the extreme range of the market, at 90⅝c to 90⅞c, and climbed steadily to 91⅜c.

Light offerings kept the corn market on the up-grade. September opened unchanged at 58¼c, and after touching 58¼c, advanced to 58⅝@58¾c.

Profit taking in oats caused a little set back. Then the market ascended with other grain. September started unchanged to ¼c up at 35¾@36c, reacted to 35⅝c, and mounted to 36⅛@36¼c.

The large run of hogs west and talk that the country is full of little pigs eased off prices in provisions. The opening was 7½c to 15c lower and in some instances there was a further decline. First prices for the first delivery were $22.15 for pork, $12.30 for lard, and $12.45 for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, Jun 17.—Changes of an eight to a quarter measured the range of the opening price movement today for nearly all of the prominent stocks. The tone was uncertain and irregular and the dealings insignificant in volume. Missouri Pasific gained 1.

There was a slight movement upward in which Reading and Amal copper were prominent. The advance did not hold. Business was in trivial porportions. New York Air Brake advanced 3½ points. Federal Mining preferred 3, Louisville & Nashville, 1¼ and St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred 1. Toledo, St. Louis & Western and Rock Island preferred sagged a point.

The business of the morning in the stock market was at a low level of activity for the year. Price movements correspondingly sluggish and uncertain. At noon, prices were at a higher level than last night. St. Louis & San Francisco second preferred and Republic Steel rose 1 point and Wisconsin Central and Federal Lead 1. Toledo, St. Louis & Western lost 2. Bonds were irregular.

Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred dropped 8 points. The list otherwise was not essentially changed.

Only a few orders were executed and these were in most cases at a slightly higher level. Amalgamated Copper added a fraction to its forenoon rise, making its gain almost a point.

The market closed steady but lifeless. A fraction was added to the price of Amalgamated Copper, but the general market remained lethargic. Railway Steel Spring and Pullman receded 1 and Toledo, St. Louis & Western preferred 4 points.

CITY BREVITIES.

Mrs. Nathan Tyler, residing near Columbia City, was brought to this city yesterday and taken to the Lutheran hospital, where today she underwent a surgical operation.

Postmaster Smith and Attorney Shinbeckler, of Churubusco, were in the city yesterday investigating the matter of oiled streets. They visited Swinney park, where the method is used with good success.

True Fristoe has been re-engaged for the Airdome this season, and Charles Carr, a well-known vaudeville vocalist, will sing the illustrated songs in place of Frank Jones, who has filled that position for two seasons.

The remains of Alpha McClain, who committed suicide by hanging himself on Glasgow avenue Tuesday night, were taken to Columbia City Thursday, and funeral services were held today from the home of his father north of that place.

The fallow deer which escaped some time ago from Robison park, was killed Thursday night by a Lake Shore locomotive when it wandered upon the railroad track north of the city. Manager Williams, of the park, has replaced the animal by a purchase from the Brookside farm.

Eleven days on its run from Quebec to Mexico City, the Flanders "20" car, driven by W. J. Lane in the "Under Three Flags" trip, passed through Fort Wayne late yesterday afternoon. Ben Bell piloted the racer to Huntington, where Mr. Lane and his business agent, Paul H. Bruske, spent the night.

DIABETES

From late figures the hope of recovery under the new emollient treatment seems to be about as follows:

In people of sixty and over results are quite uniform, probably nine-tenths recovering. While at fifty and over a large majority of all cases yield to the treatment, below fifty and approaching forty the disease gets more stubborn, and between thirty and forty the percentage is not high—probably not much over half yielding.

Under thirty the percentage is less and in children have been very low and most of those were obtained with the aid of skilled physicians forcing nutrition, with alkaline treatment to prevent formation of acetones.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Diabetic Compound. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Always state age. Literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

The Rational Treatment for Eczema

The day of the use of salves and greasy lotions in the treatment of eczema and other skin and scalp diseases is done. Time has proved them not only practically useless in effecting permanent cures, but also unclean and in reality, breeding places for disease germs. The Meyer Bros. Co. drug store is pleased to announce itself agent for ZEMO—the modern, clean, simple and infallible treatment for eczema, pimples, blackheads, dandruff and all itching diseases of the skin and scalp.

So confident are we of its efficacy that we say to you—use ZEMO according to directions—then if not satisfactory, come and get your money back.
